TRUMP, BIDEN CLASH IN BITTER PREZ DEBATE

The first presidential debate in Cleveland, Ohio, on Tuesday was marked by angry interruptions and bitter accusations. Moderated by Fox News anchor Chris Wallace, the debate saw Donald Trump and his rival Joe Biden trade barbs about each other's families. At one point, Biden lost his cool and shouted, "Will you shut up, man? This is so unpresidential," calling him a liar, clown and racist. Trump returned the favour | P12

ADVANI, OTHERS ACQUITTED IN BABRI CONSPIRACY CASE

Court finds no plot to demolish structure, claims it was spontaneous; blames anti-socials

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

AN attempt to unravel the conspiracy to demolish the Babri Masjid flew out of the window on Wednesday, as a special CBI court acquitted all 32 accused, including BJP's L K Advani, Murli Manohar Joshi, Kalyan Singh and Uma Bharti, for want of conclusive evidence.

Rejecting the criminal conspiracy theory, the court observed that the demolition of the 16th century mosque in Ayodhya on December 6, 1992 was spontaneous and not pre-planned.

Reading out the operative portion of the 2,300-page judgement in five minutes, special judge S K Yadav observed that the CBI had failed to produce conclusive and enough corroborative evidence against any of the accused to prove their complicity in the demolition.

Implicating the CBI further, the judge held that the role of the Vishwa Hindu Parishad and the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh, too, could not be proved by the evidence produced by the prosecution. "Even VHP leader, late Ashok Singhal, was trying to stop kar sevaks from demolishing the disputed structure because the idol of Lord Ram was also inside it," the judge said. He held that the CBI could not establish the role of any of the accused with evidence.

SIGH OF RELIEF FOR SAFFRON LEADERSHIP

Leaders of the saffron fraternity, including (from left) L K Advani, Murli Manohar Joshi, Sakshi Maharaj, Sadhvi Ritambhara and Vinay Katiyar break into smiles after their acquittal by the trial court. The Opposition, however, called the verdict obnoxious, with the Congress saying it ran counter to the Constitutional spirit

The judge said media reports produced by the prosecution could not be accepted as pieces of evidence, as their original sources were not produced and proved. He said photos related to the incident produced by the prosecution, too, could not be relied upon as their negatives were not submitted, which was mandatory.

He observed that none of the locals testified against any of the accused to prove that they incited the mob to demolish the structure.

"Anti-social elements brought down the structure. The accused leaders tried to stop them," said the judge. Pointing out that audio and video cassettes produced in the court by the prosecution were not sealed and even the videos were not clear, the verdict said they seemed to be fabricated and tampered with.

The court observed that till noon everything was fine in Ayodhya on that fateful day. Then some anti-social elements started brick-batting from behind the Babri structure.

"There is no evidence that the accused tied together in a common cause with anti-social elements to bring down the structure. The leaders seated near the Ram Chabutra did not anticipate that a section of kar sevaks will get agitated and climb the structure," the judge said.

The court also criticised the district administration for failing to act on intelligence reports on the presence of anti-social elements.

Later, prosecution lawyer Lalit Singh said a decision on whether or not to challenge the verdict will be taken at the CBI headquarters in New Delhi after consultations with legal experts. MORE REPORTS ON: P9

BSY, BJP leaders hail verdict; Cong seeks review

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister B S Yediyurappa and other BJP leaders hailed the CBI Special Court's verdict in the Babri Masjid demolition case on Wednesday as a triumph of truth and justice.

"Truth has emerged victorious. I was also part of the movement and I am personally very happy with the verdict. Many people were waiting for it with bated breath. This is the latest example to prove that fighters will always emerge triumphant," said Yediyurappa soon after the verdict. He credited the senior party leaders for their relentless fight. A host of BJP leaders, from state party president Nalin Kumar Kateel to ministers to MLAs, welcomed the verdict.

Congress leader and Rajya Sabha MP Mallikarjun Kharge said it is unfair to say the accused did not have a role to play, despite evidence. Even as KPCC president D K Shivakumar refrained from comment, Congress Legislature Party chief Siddaramaiah called the verdict 'unfortunate'. He insisted the Centre and UP government should appeal before the SC. P4

Last rites of gang-rape victim at dead of night. What's happening in UP?

NAMITA BAJPAI & SOMRITA GHOSH @ Lucknow / New Delhi

AFTER the horrific brutality that the gang-rape victim from Hathras district in Uttar Pradesh suffered when alive, the 19-year-old was denied dignity even in death by the Uttar Pradesh Police. The Dalit girl, who died at Delhi's Safdarjung Hospital on Tuesday, was forcibly cremated early Wednesday by Hathras police amid their claims to the contrary. As the police action sparked a massive public outrage, the Yogi Adityanath government ordered an SIT probe and vowed that no culprit would be spared.

Following the girl's death, her younger brother and father were made to wait for hours before they could head back to their village Boolgarhi in Hathras. It was around 1 am when the police, along with the body and the family, reached the village. However, the police didn't take the body to the house, her family and villagers said.

The family, including the mother, elder brother and father, said they pleaded with the cops to allow them to take their daughter home before cremating her. But the police "forced" them to complete the last rites immediately.

Students can't visit schools, PU colleges till October 15

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government has decided not to allow students from schools and pre-university colleges to visit their institutes till October 15.

The announcement came just hours before the Ministry of Home Affairs' guidelines to states to consider reopening schools only after October 15.

The MHA, in August, had permitted students of class 9 to 12 to visit their school and clarify doubts from September 21. The state had announced that students will not be allowed to visit schools till September-end. This was met with resentment by private schools who said the government had played foul by starting offline classes for government schools but prohibiting it for private ones.

The Commissioner of Public Instruction said because of Covid, it was decided it would not be safe for students to visit schools. P7

CONTRACTORS GO ALL OUT TO WOO LABOURERS BACK

Pay for flight tickets, offer bigger salaries

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

WHILE the country is reeling under the impact of Covid and a good chunk of the workforce has either lost jobs or facing pay cuts, the labour force employed in different construction projects is being lured back with attractive offers. Contractors attached to the Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board are offering numerous incentives, including free flight tickets, 30 per cent increase in salary and advance payments to labourers.

But with Covid cases surging in Bengaluru, many workers are not taking up these lucrative offers.

Parashurama Naik of Va Tech Wabag, a water treatment concern from Chennai, had bagged a project to set up a sewage treatment plant at Koramangala and Challaghatta Valley. "Our contract involves civil works to the tune of Rs 297 crore plus maintenance contract of Rs 89 crore. Our July deadline could not be met due to the lockdown and with the workforce going dow from nearly 250 to just 50," he said. "Our labourers who hailed from Jharkhand, West Bengal and Uttar Pradesh left and the only ones willing to carry on were from Karnataka and Tamil Nadu," he added.

Explaining the efforts put in to get them back, he said, "In August and September alone, I booked 20 tickets from West Bengal and UP with each ticket costing over Rs 4,500. I have also booked tickets on special trains and sent buses to bring back labourers. We have to meet their demands, including a good pay hike as well as make advance payments to supervisors who mobilise them." Advance payments were there earlier too but after workers reached the site. Now, they have to be done before they start from their hometowns, he added.

"Foremen who used to earn Rs 600 per day now want up to Rs 750, while Supervisors who got Rs 750 want up to Rs 1,000. Bar benders charged Rs 4,000 to Rs 5,000 earlier for a tonne of steel. They now demand Rs 4,500 to Rs 6,000," he said.

BWSSB Chairman N Jayaram admitted that shortage of labour has affected many projects, including Cauvery Water Supply Project Stage V. "Things have started moving now with the workforce returning," he added.

I have also booked tickets on special trains and sent buses to bring back labourers. We have to meet their demands, including a good pay hike as well as make advance payments to supervisors who mobilise them

Sewage water raises a stink in Cubbon Park

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

MEMBERS of Cubbon Park Welfare Association have alleged that sewage water is entering and stagnating in Cubbon Park.

Sewage water has been collecting near Sampangi tank for the past four or five days, and the rajakaluve is overflowing near Kanteerava Stadium leading to water stagnation and posing health risks, association members said. They also pointed out that water is stagnating in the park towards MG Road side.

Reacting to these issues, Gunavantha, Cubbon Park, Deputy Director, Horticulture Department, said, sewage water is going to the BWSSB installed treatment plant near Kanteerava Stadium. There were some blockages, which have been pointed out to the BWSSB and they are addressing it. "No sewage water is entering the park. The water stagnating towards MG Road side is because of the ongoing TenderSure works on the roads. Storm water and rain water is collecting inside and it is also being cleared," he added.

VRISHABHAVATHI VALLEY

KSPCB marshals to check pollution

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

TO address the issue of the rising stench and pollution in the Vrishabhavathi Valley, the Karnataka State Pollution Control Board (KSPCB), has now taken the decision to deploy marshals to keep a check on polluters.

The decision was taken after the KSPCB was flooded with complaints from citizens and members of Save Vrishabhavathi Valley on the issue.

KSPCB Member Secretary K Srinivasalu told TNIE that orders were issued after holding a meeting with citizen groups on September 23.

Two marshals will be deployed to tour the valley from 6pm to 6am and keep a check on the polluters. "They will be on duty and will start their drive from October 5. They will take punitive action against the polluter and seize vehicles. Four more rapid response vehicles will be added to the list in another 15 days to tighten the vigil," he said.

"It is also important to check on polluting industries as it was in the case of Bellandur, where 29 of the 429 identified industries were shut down. Industries should have their own STPs. We are also working on common effluent treatment plants. Control rooms are also being set up for people to post their complaints which will be addressed immediately," he added.

People residing along Mysuru Road, Rajarajeshwari Nagar, Dasarahalli, Peenya and surrounding areas, had been repeatedly complaining to the KSPCB of the pollution in the 52km long valley.

Citizens, however, say that this is only the bare minimum and a lot more needs to be done. Nivedita Sunkad from Namami Vrishabhavathi group said the main issue is addressing the polluting industries. "Earlier, the KSPCB ordered to check on polluting industries and close them, but nothing was done. It is the worst water body in Bengaluru, where residents of RR Nagar, saw coloured effluents in it on a daily basis," she said.

An RR Nagar resident said in many instances, along with chemical water, carcasses have been seen flowing in the valley. The government claims that the valley towards Malleswaram and Basavanagudi is clean but most of it is covered and is filled with sewage. The problem towards the industrial side is worse.

In a first, K-Rera orders builder not to issue sale deeds

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka-Real Estate Regulatory Authority (K-Rera) has directed Jain Heights not to execute or register sale deeds till all amenities for at Jain Heights East Parade are functional, and until requisite clearances are obtained.

In a first, K- Rera issued the orders following a complaint filed by residents of Jain Heights East Parade in Kaggadasapura and Vibhutipura villages, alleging that the builder had not provided basic facilities and Bescom electricity supply provided at commercial rates. They also said they faced threat from power cuts.

On December 23, 2019, K- Rera issued orders directing the builder not to disconnect power. On September 8 it orally ordered the builder not to issue sale deeds and issued a written order on September 30 to that effect, after petitioners pointed that nothing was done. K-Rera also noted that the respondents did not appear before it and did not file a statement of objections.

At the hearing, K-Rera directed the builder not to execute any sale deed for apartments until permanent Bescom and BWSSB connections were obtained along with Occupancy Certificate.

The complainants apprised K- Rera that the project is unfinished and approvals for fire safety, lift installation, and water treatment plant were not obtained. "We are 200 families staying in the apartments using 250 KV power at commercial rates. We are paying for DG sets and diesel also for power. We have filed FIRs against the builder for the harassment we are facing. With the commercial power supply and disruptions, there were near-fatal accidents by people using the lift," said Kundhavi R, treasurer of Jain Heights East Parade Buyers Welfare Association.

Kishor Jain, managing director of Jain Heights and Credai president, said he was not aware of the new hearing. As per the earlier order, work on permanent power supply is on. He said that they had applied for occupancy certificate and that it would be obtained in six months. Also work on getting other clearances was an ongoing exercise.

01st October : More dramatic planetary patterns are set to see unusual encounters, strange meetings and long-forgotten memories. Sometimes fate teaches us cosmic lessons, and if there's anything to learn at the moment, it's that we are never truly free from the past!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
You're becoming more business-minded. Just watch out for losses in family affairs or when there's a high chance that you'll be over-charged. You can hope for the best and latch on to any signs that things are getting better. Actually, optimism will soon breed success.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
You're getting mixed messages. Neighbours or relatives could say one thing, family members another. The trouble is that nobody will say exactly what they mean. This isn't their fault - it's that mischievous planet Mercury which is making communication so difficult.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
There is no doubt whatsoever that you have a very difficult furrow to plough, but equally every possibility that you can evade your responsibilities if you wish. The cavalry should arrive in about forty eight-hours in the form of drastically changed planetary alignments.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
It is not possible to control the factors around you as closely as you might like. It is often quite exciting to sit back and let fate take a hand, and this is how you may play it over the next three days. Just take care not to incur extra costs, though, as they might run out of control.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
There's a fair amount of ambition in the wind today, and I think you'll be very purposeful about getting your own way. Just watch out for an unforeseen confrontation at the very last minute, and take the appropriate action. You might want to duck the problem altogether.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Your long, drawn-out struggle to transform aspects of your personal life is surely about to bear fruit. You will be amply recompensed in a very few days, especially if you are prepared to strike out on your own. This is one time when courage could be rewarded.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Home and family life continue to occupy a central role in your horoscope. Relations may well be getting up to their old tricks, but what is more important is the psychological dimension and the requirement that you build your life on firm emotional foundations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Be prepared for controversial statements. If you can possibly come out with some sharp ideas of your own, so much the better. Life does look a little argumentative, so you should seek allies today, ready for a trial of wills any time over the next two or three days.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Your heart is fluttering after a recent flirtation. Even if it's all a fantasy, you can allow yourself to feel good. The best thing you can do today is press on with routine tasks and ignore a minor provocation. But do make a point of placating partners before they explode.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
The planet to watch now is Uranus, the eccentric celestial body which will soon force you to reassess your life, particularly your finances. You should take nothing for granted and be ready move at the drop of a hat. It's clear that you need to pay more attention to your material resources, whatever other people say.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
The Sun and the Moon will soon be coming together in a dramatic alignment which even now may be making its presence felt. Don't be disturbed by potentially upsetting events or feelings, but look closer and see that there's much you can learn and discover about yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Close relationships are always of great importance, but I feel that often there's a gap between the dream and the reality. Current celestial indications suggest that you should throw yourself into social contacts of any sort with no preconceptions whatsoever.

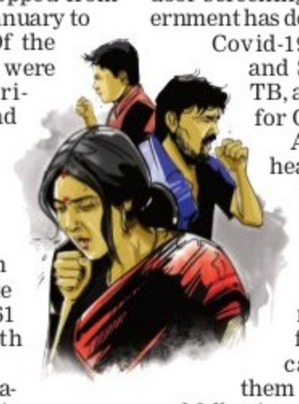
WITH ALL EYES ON CORONA, TB TAKES A HIT

Karnataka saw over 45K cases this year

RANJANI MADHAVAN @Bengaluru

WITH the public, government and media focused on Covid-19, reporting and screening of Tuberculosis (TB) has taken a hit. From January to September, 45,839 cases of Tuberculosis were notified in Karnataka. The actual numbers are much higher as Covid-19 has hit both active (door-to-door screening) and passive (people reporting to PHCs) TB case findings.

Data shows notification of new TB cases dropped from 8,163 patients in January to 3,417 in August. Of the 45,839 cases, 9,212 were reported from private hospitals and 36,628 from government facilities. Last year, 90,176 cases were notified in the state, with 12,215 from private centres and 72,961 from public health facilities.



TB is a preventable and curable airborne disease which affects the lungs and includes symptoms of cough for more than two weeks, night sweats, fever, loss of appetite and weight, sweating etc. Extra pulmonary Tuberculosis includes swelling of lymph nodes, and affects the abdomen, kidney and other organs.

This year, 2,634 TB-related deaths were reported so far in Karnataka. Till September, 307 took place in private hospitals and 2,327 in government centres. While a death audit has not been done, reasons can include comorbidities like cancer, cardiovascular diseases, HIV, diabetes etc.

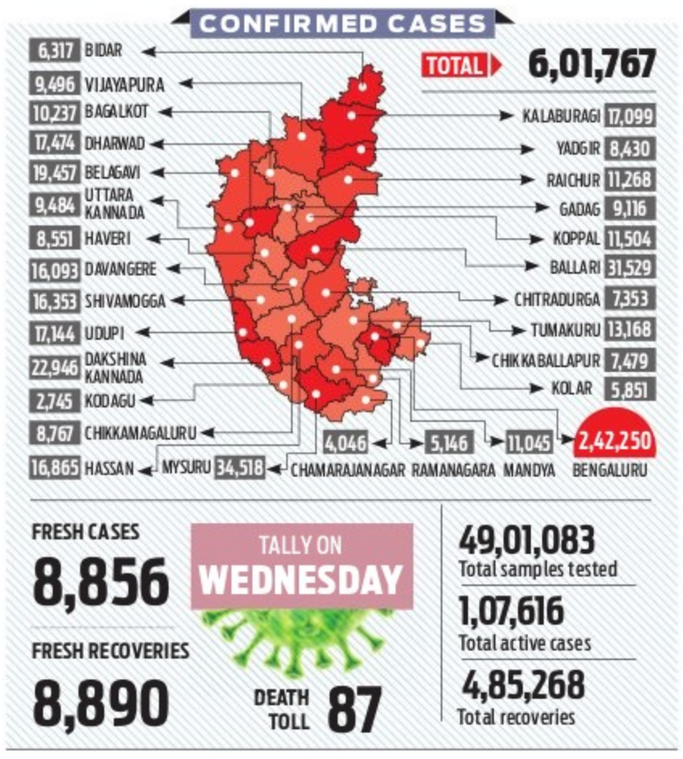
The number of deaths recorded has consistently reduced since January.

Ramesh Reddy, Joint Director, Tuberculosis, health and family welfare department, said, "As symptoms of cough and fever are common to both TB and Covid-19, people fear to report symptoms to health staff who come for door-to-door screening. Now, the government has decided to screen Covid-19 patients, ILI and SARI cases for TB, and all TB cases for Covid-19."

At present, health staff from the TB programme has been diverted for corona duties. They are responsible for finding suspect cases, getting them tested, treated and following up for two years post recovery.

"A person with a cough for more than two weeks is more likely to have TB than Covid-19. It spreads easily in densely populated areas, slums, among migrant workers and those who work in mines," Reddy added.

Unlike Covid-19 that takes up to 14 days for asymptomatic people to recover from, TB takes a minimum of six to eight months and a maximum of 1.5 to 2 years.



HC DECLINES TO INTERFERE IN SOP ISSUED TO PREVENT SPREAD OF COVID

Bengaluru: Declining to interfere with Covid guidelines on religious congregations issued by the National and State Executive Committees under the Disaster Management Act, a division bench of the Karnataka High Court comprising Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Ashok S Kinagi, disposed of a PIL on Wednesday. The petitioner, Mir Imran Ali, of Bengaluru, sought permission to take out a mourning procession. The Court directed the state to take a decision and inform the petitioner by October 5.

8 locopilots, stn controllers test +ve

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

WHILE improving ridership on Metro trains is proving to be a challenge, a new problem has surfaced for Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) -- safety of its staffers. A total of 28 locopilots and station controllers tested positive for Covid-19 after operations began on September 7.

A Metro source told TNIE that they were all asymptomatic and out of danger. "They are in home quarantine or in hospitals, as advised by doctors," he said.

Ajay Seth, Managing Director, BMRCL, said, "All the affected staff are fine and mostly asymptomatic. BMRCL arranged testing of the staff who work at stations so that travel for the public is safer."

A source said that six station maintainers too have tested positive. Nearly 450 locopilots and station controllers man operations of Metro trains between 7 am and 9 pm on the Green and Purple lines.

On safety measures for the staff, an official said, "Thermal scanning is carried out before they report for duty." A Covid Care Centre on Bannerghatta Road caters exclusively to BMRCL employees. "We are following all SOPs issued by the Centre. Our employees commute to work from their homes and could have caught the infection anywhere," the official said.

Mask up! Fine up to ₹1k in cities, ₹500 in villages

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru:

TO crack down on people not wearing masks, the government hiked the penalty to Rs 1,000, and said strict action will be taken against organisers who allow more than 50 people at events.

The decision was taken at a high-level meeting on Wednesday, where senior officers gave their suggestions. "The penalty for not wearing a mask in public places has been hiked to Rs 1,000 in urban areas and Rs 500 in rural areas," Medical Education Minister Dr K Sudhakar said.

Those not fully covering their noses and mouths with masks will be fined, and the official directive on penalties will be out on Thursday after discussions with Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa.

Not more than 50 persons will be allowed to attend any function, he said, adding that even markets and malls cannot have more than five people in a group. "A distance of 6 feet must be maintained between people in the group, or a fine will be imposed on the owner of the organisation or shop. Buses should operate with 50 per cent capacity and conductors should only allow those wearing masks," said Sudhakar.

A month on, govt's contract tracing app has few takers

IFFATH FATHIMA @Bengaluru

THE contact tracing app introduced by the government over a month ago has so far seen only 3,000 downloads. Citizens could declare themselves as contacts of Covid-19 patients via the app or the infected could list their relatives as their contacts.

The app was launched after multiple incidents of primary and secondary contacts of Covid-positive patients not revealing their identities due to the fear of being tested and made to quarantine.

Munish Moudgil, Incharge Of State War Room and who introduced the app, said, "Anybody who is aware of the contacts of Covid-19 patients can give their details and we will verify them from our end and proceed with quarantining and testing them. There are people who do not want to reveal their identity. They will be anonymous, thanks to the app."

Until Tuesday, the state recorded 2,16,122 cases under investigation which means that health department and BBMP are still in the process of tracing the history.

Moudgil said that early contact tracing is important as it will help in curbing the spread of Covid-19. "Not revealing their contacts after testing positive leads to a huge source of infection. And not wearing a mask and not maintaining social distancing are also reasons. People need to be aware and reveal their contacts to the authorities to curb the spread."

How to use the app

After downloading the app, citizens can feed the patient's SRF ID or mobile number, and list themselves as primary or secondary contacts. In case they don't know the patient's SRF ID, citizens can manually feed the patient's name and other details into the app.

There is also an option to geo-tag addresses, making it easy for officials to conduct contact tracing. After this, the backend team at the war room will ascertain if the data provided by app-users is accurate or not, before further action is taken.

BABRI: PARTIES TAKE STRONG POLITICAL STAND

Personal victory for me: Yediyurappa

ANUSHA RAVI @Bengaluru

THE mood was that of jubilation for leaders of the BJP State unit on Wednesday as the special CBI court acquitted all accused in the Babri Masjid demolition case citing lack of evidence to prove conspiracy. Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa deemed the verdict a personal victory for him as a participant in the movement.

While his first reaction, in Kannada, was centred on hailing leaders like Lal Krishna Advani, MM Joshi and Uma Bharati, the CM was uncharacteristically aggressive while speaking to the English media. "I hope this verdict will provide a great sigh of relief to a veteran leader like L K Advani Ji who was subjected to mental agony. This verdict has reinforced people's belief in the Indian judiciary. I hope at least now onwards critics of BJP will keep their mouths shut," he told the English media while reading the lines written by one of his staff members. Barely minutes earlier, he had read out a Kannada statement that was more in tune with his demeanour. "It's a good day. The Lucknow CBI court has given a historic verdict acquitting 32 persons including BJP leaders Advani, MM Joshi and Uma Bharati. Court has said this wasn't a premeditated incident. Truth has emerged victorious," Yediyurappa said.

In his statement, State party president Nalin Kumar Kateel, said, "Court has upheld that there was no role of BJP leaders and seers in the demolition," he said. "Verdict says that the demolition was not preplanned and happened on the spur of the moment. Satyameva Jayate!' said Dr K Sudhakar, Medical Education Minister.

Timed visit

Newly-appointed National General Secretary of BJP C T Ravi and BJP Yuva Morcha president Tejasvi Surya timed their maiden visit to the BJP state head office to coincide with the day of Babri Masjid demolition verdict

Unfortunate verdict, say Kharge, Siddu

ANUSHA RAVI @Bengaluru

"IF nobody is guilty, then who demolished Babri Masjid?" asked senior Congress leader and Rajya Sabha MP Mallikarjun Kharge, in response to the CBI Special Court's verdict in the case acquitting 32 accused, including BJP leaders. Kharge recalled that BJP leader Lal Krishna Advani had himself referred to the incident as a "terrible mistake" and Atal Bihari Vajpayee had claimed that kar sevaks went out of control, leading to the "unfortunate incidents in Ayodhya".

"How will people believe this? It is not fair to say they are not guilty, when everybody could see and hear everything. Slogans of 'Ek dhakka aur do, Babri Masjid tod do' and photographs of Uma Bharati with MM Joshi are all there as recorded evidence. The SC, too, in 2019 had said that demolition of the mosque was illegal. If the lower court has not taken cognizance of the SC's stance, then there is a lacuna in the judgment," Kharge said, adding that there should be a review petition. He also pointed out that the demolition was preceded by Advani's well-planned Rath Yatra.

Leader of Opposition in the Karnataka assembly Siddaramaiah, too, urged the Uttar Pradesh state and Union governments to appeal against the verdict. "The judgment of the Special Court to acquit all 32 accused in the Babri Masjid demolition case is unfortunate. Looks like they have not taken the 2019 judgment of the Supreme Court, and Constitutional principles into consideration," he said. Siddaramaiah said the question of who demolished the masjid remained unanswered, and an appeal should be made in the SC.

Campaign during Covid: Leaders hope to stay safe

K SHIVA KUMAR @Mysuru

AS the Covid shadow overhangs the November 3 bypolls to Sira and RR Nagar constituencies, politicians face the challenge of running a safe campaign, especially with cases on an upward spiral. The pandemic has pushed them on the backfoot, as the very essence of democratically fought elections lies in the leader reaching out to constituents.

The scare is especially greater since Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa, BJP State Chief Nalin Kumar Kateel, Opposition leader Siddaramaiah, KPCC president D K Shivakumar, JDS leader HD Revanna and many other leaders tested positive and have only just recovered. Former Prime Minister HD Deve Gowda has to keep his age in mind, and former Chief Minister HD Kumaraswamy, who has serious health issues, has been advised to keep away from gatherings.

Bengaluru, with 2.28 lakh cases, is fast emerging as the corona capital of the country, and R R Nagar, where bypolls are due, has alone crossed the 15,000-mark (12 per cent of cases reported in Bengaluru in the past 10 days). This has put netas in a fix.

In these changed times, the BJP, Congress and JDS are exploring maximum use of social media platforms and other modes to reach out to voters. They know that this election involves more than just picking candidates and mobilising resources and manpower; they will have to deliver their punch on digital platforms.

Opposition leader Siddaramaiah has decided not to come out without a shield, and is very particular about keeping social distance, while D K Shivakumar, who was rushed to hospital recently, is also wary. Gowda, who has remained indoors over the past few months, has started interacting with leaders on phone and Zoom to discuss the party organization. Both the seats going to polls are in Vokkaliga-dominated areas, and the JDS is keen to retain Sira and also wrest RR Nagar, and has turned to e-campaigning.

The KPCC, that successfully used digital streaming for Prathigna Diwas, the oath-taking ceremony of Shivakumar, is expanding its reach to its cadres with the use of Facebook, Zoom, Google Net and WhatsApp, besides video campaigns.

KPCC IT cell chief Priyank Kharge said that campaigning while maintaining social distance norms, is the greatest challenge. He said the Congress is looking at higher penetration for the success of its propaganda, and its own narrative to win voters. Digital campaigning is an integral part of election strategies in future, and everyone wants to do well on digital platforms, he added.

The BJP has the advantage of a head start, as it has been using social media platforms to take its programmes to the people, and for party organisation activities, and is set to step up its campaign in both the constituencies.

State BJP general secretary Siddaraju said a meeting will be held to discuss its bypoll strategy and also the use of social media. He said the party will get directions from the high command on the use of digital platforms.

JDS leader Sa Ra Mahesh said it is difficult to campaign, as the health of both leaders and voters is at stake. He said the party will explore all possible modalities to use social media to reach out to voters, train party cadre at the booth level and also upload speeches of Deve Gowda and Kumaraswamy, seeking support for the party candidates.

Next round of bypolls soon: Maski, Basavakalyan, Belgaum

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

AFTER the Election Commission's announcement to hold elections in Sira and RR Nagar, all three parties have started the race to prep for the next round of bypolls in the assembly segments of Maski and Basavakalyan, and parliamentary segment Belgaum.

Chief Election Commissioner Sanjiv Kumar told TNIE, "We received court orders on Monday on the Maski election, and a decision on the date of election will be taken soon by the Election Commission."

Basavakalyan constituency, where Congress MLA B Narayana Rao passed away, has still not been reported by the legislature secretariat to the Election Commission. After this, the proposal is sent to New Delhi and a decision taken on the dates.

But the three parties have already started mobilising their units in these segments. "Both Basavakalyan and Maski were Congress seats. We have started discussions and preparations. The Congress candidate won Basavakalyan by about 18,000 votes last time," said KPCC working president Eshwar Khandre. He said the party is ready for the Belgaum parliamentary bypoll too.

BJP leader Go Madhusudhan said the party will wait for the announcement and will soon start ground preparations in these constituencies.

Modi offered me CM post in 2018, claims HDK

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @Tumakuru

THE JDS on Wednesday plunged into campaigning for the Sira bypoll, with former Chief Minister H D Kumaraswamy making a startling revelation at a public meeting: Prime Minister Narendra Modi had offered him the CM's post after the 2018 assembly polls.

"Even the BJP offered me the post, with Narendra Modi himself promising that he will ensure that no one disturbs me from the post for five years," he said, apparently to impress upon the 20,000-plus Muslim electorate of his credentials as a secular leader. He also said he was reluctant to accept the Congress offer to lead the JDS-Congress alliance government as former PM H D Deve Gowda was ready to extend support if the Congress had chosen a leader like Mallikarjun Kharge as CM candidate.

"I was forced to accept the post by the Congress central leadership, and finally made up my mind so that I could fulfil the promises the party made to the people, especially farmers," he added. Targeting former CM Siddaramaiah, he said he did not allow him to govern the state, and instead, broke the alliance along with "other narrow-minded leaders".

HDK attacked the Yediyurappa government, saying it had scrapped all pro-people schemes, with people fraudulently taking crop loans multiple times. Taking a jibe at BJP vice-president BY Vijayendra, he appealed to the electorate not to fall prey to money power. Former minister H D Revanna and Hassan MP Prajwal Revanna also delivered speeches filled with emotion, in an apparent bid to gain the sympathy over the untimely death of B Satyanarayana.

CABINET EXPANSION TAKES A BACKSEAT AS BYPOLLS LOOM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister B S Yediyurappa, who seemed to be interested in expanding his cabinet before the assembly session commenced, is now in no hurry to induct new ministers.

With the Election Commission of India announcing bypolls to Sira and Rajarajeshwarinagar assembly constituencies, B S Yediyurappa and the BJP Central leadership are said to be considering putting off cabinet expansion till completion of the electoral process.

N Muniratna, who joined the BJP after being disqualified for defection last year, is set to be the party's candidate for the Rajarajeshwarinagar Nagar constituency as per Yediyurappa and Central leadership's assurance at the time of jumping ships to the party. Muniratna may have to be inducted into the cabinet if he wins from the seat — a definite possibility for now with neither the Congress nor the JDS finding winnable candidates so far.

The party is said to be considering a cabinet expansion or rejig once for all after the bypoll when Muniratna may also have to be inducted, instead of expanding it once now and one after the polls.

"I am contacting our leadership in New Delhi. Once they give permission, I will go meet them to discuss the expansion," said Yediyurappa on Wednesday, barely enthusiastic about the expansion.

The party leadership also hopes to hold off any disgruntlement or possible dissent emerging out of a cabinet expansion until bypolls conclude.

Protect local students' interests: Cong MP to CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

RAJYA Sabha member G C Chandrashekhar on Wednesday urged Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa to take measures to protect the interests of local students. This follows the Karnataka High Court striking down the amendment brought to the National Law School of India University (NLSIU) Act to provide 25 per cent reservation in the institution to those who studied in the state.

In a letter to the CM, he said a committee consisting of legal experts must be constituted immediately and the matter must be taken up in the Supreme Court to protect the interests of the students from Karnataka. "Only eight students from Karnataka got seats in NLSIU last year and five local students got admission in IIT Dharwad," the MP stated.

He added that in such a situation the demand for 25 per cent reservation for local students was justified as that would help provide employment to local youth. There are 23 national law colleges in the country and in most of them, seats are reserved for local students, he stated. NALSAR Hyderabad has 20 per cent reservation, in NLU Bhopal, 26 out of 65 BA LLB seats are reserved for local students and NUJS Kolkata is adopting a system to reserve 30 per cent seats for local students from next academic year, the MP stated.

Chandrashekhar said it is difficult for rural students to compete with those from cities as centralised entrance tests are held for national law colleges, IITs, IIMs and other such institutes.

'Bypolls small test, party has won bigger battles'

SURYA DEFENDS TERROR REMARK

Bengaluru: Defending his statement on Bengaluru becoming a terror hub, Bangalore South MP Tejasvi Surya on Wednesday said Bengaluru needs a National Investigation Agency unit, and will be included in the next notification by the Ministry of Home Affairs. Surya told reporters, "There is match-fixing between the Congress and SDPI. This is why Congress is opposing an NIA office in Bengaluru. Congress leaders did not have the courage to condemn the SDPI after DJ Halli violence. I need not learn from them about my city," he said, responding to criticism from Congress leaders for his remarks on Bengaluru as a terror hub. "Going by recent incidents, we have submitted a memorandum for an NIA office in Bengaluru. It is our responsibility to keep our city safe." ENS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE newly-appointed BJP national general secretary C T Ravi said Sira or Rajarajeshwarinagar bypoll results will not have any impact on state government. "This is just a small test, we already won a bigger one last year," 'he said. He reiterated that he prefers to work in organisation than being in the state government.

"We are not taking any election lightly as every poll is a challenge for us. There are many aspirants for all these bypolls. Our state core committee will select and send the list to Parliamentary Committee, who will give final approval. We will support whoever is contesting," he told reporters at the party office in Bengaluru. The party won 12 out of 15 assembly constituencies in the bypolls last year and compared to those elections, this bypoll is 'like smaller exams," he said.

He said it is important for the party to win Sira as the BJP has never won in the constituency unlike RR Nagar and other constituencies. "Winning Sira will help us strengthen our party."

Ravi said his responsibility keeps changing, but the 'kaaryakartha' feeling is permanent. "I have worked from panchayat booth and reached here. If I am given an option to work in the government or in the party, I will choose the party first. BJP is a cadre-based party. Party workers can become the head of the party unlike Congress, which is headed by members from one family," he added.

Ravi had earlier stated that he is willing to resign if the party asks him to do so during the reshuffle.

Eat at a restaurant, buy the needy a free meal

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

EACH time you treat yourself to a meal at a restaurant, spend a little more to donate another meal for the needy.

The Bruhat Bengaluru Hotels Association is launching the 'Sanchigondu.. a morsel for the hungry' campaign, which asks diners to buy a meal for the needy. All they have to do is buy a token, drop it in a dedicated box, which will be used to pay for that meal.

"During this pandemic, many people have lost their jobs, especially daily wage workers and many are left penniless and shelterless, so the association has come up with this concept where diners can also help," said a hotelier.

The association's secretary Virendra Kamath told TNIE that already 29 prime city hotels and restaurants have tied up with the campaign, which will be launched on October 2. "Initially, it will be done on a pilot basis for two months, and based on the citizens' feedback, changes will be incorporated and gradually it will be spread to 300 hotels and restaurants across the city and then the state," he said.

After 16 months, nearly 40K still await BMRCL jobs

Aspirants run from pillar to post, and on social media, appeal to authorities for remedy

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

IT has been 16 months since 39,330 aspirants wrote exams for 174 vacancies in the Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Ltd (BMRCL) for its Phase-II, but there is no word on their appointments yet. This is despite their marks being made public already.

The Karnataka Exam Authority (KEA) conducted separate exams for three cadres in February 2019 — 21 junior engineer vacancies, 19 section engineers and 134 maintainers. While 18,530 aspirants appeared for maintainers' posts, 11, 300 opted for SE and 9,500 for JE.

Candidates have been waiting for months to know their fate. One of them who figured among the toppers told TNIE, "I have scored high marks and deserve to have a job now. Thousands of us are hoping and praying that BMRCL announces our appointments. Our marks are still available on the KEA website. Why is it taking them so long to make the selections?" he asked.

He informed they had made repeated requests to the BMRCL in this connection. "We also met the Chief Secretary last year and asked him to help us out. Former chief minister Siddaramaiah too had highlighted our plight to the BMRCL. Unfortunately, nothing has changed," the candidate added.

Another candidate said BMRCL isn't responding to any of their calls and messages. "At least earlier, they used to keep assuring us that it will happen soon. Now, no one responds at all."

With the pandemic ravaging job opportunities across the country, aspirants who have done well in the exams are eagerly waiting to get a call. "It was a recruitment call only for Kannadigas. Many have left the state in search of opportunities elsewhere but I and my friends are desperate to join BMRCL," another aspirant said. "The first stretch of Phase-II is scheduled to open in November. Why aren't they hiring now?" he asked. Candidates have been flooding Twitter with posts tagging every top official and minister, but their fate still remains undecided. BMRCL MD Ajay Seth and Chief Public Relations Officer B L Yashwanth Chavan reserved their comments on the issue.

PUBLIC NOTICE / DISCLAIMER

This is to notify all concerned, as well as general public, that on 24.08.2020, Mr. Cherian A. Paul and Mrs. Saramma Cherian Paul ("Land Owner") had published a 'Public Notice' in The New India Express newspaper, Bengaluru edition in respect of residential apartment building "Chowriappa Constellation" situated at Geddalahalli Village, K.K. Puram Hobli, Bengaluru East Taluk and developed by Chowriappa Constructions Private Limited ("Developer") in terms of registered Joint Development Agreement executed by and between the Land Owner and the Developer. The contents of the aforesaid Public Notice dated 24.08.2020 published by the Land Owner are distorted and incorrect.

All concerned/public in general are hereby informed that, in order to secure repayment of loan availed by the Developer from Anand Rathi Global Finance Limited ("ARGFL"), the Developer has mortgaged 75 units/flats at "Chowriappa Constellation" in favour of ARGFL vide 'Memorandum of Deposit of Title Deeds' ("MODT") dated 01.12.2016 registered in the office of sub-registrar Bengaluru. The said MODT has been acknowledged and confirmed by the Land Owner. As a result of default committed by the Developer in repayment of loan, the Authorized Officer of ARGFL has proceeded to enforce its security interest with respect to the units/flats under SARFAESI Act and Rules.

Please note that the purported termination of Joint Development Agreement does not prejudice the rights of ARGFL as a secured creditor and ARGFL is well within its right to take appropriate steps (including sale of mortgaged flats/units) under SARFAESI Act.

Gold smuggling: Sandeep to confess

Five national agencies await statement; court tells accused he may not be pardoned

TOBY ANTONY @ Kochi

SANDEEP NAIR, a key accused in the smuggling of gold through the diplomatic channel, has agreed to confess before the NIA Court voluntarily. His confession statement will be a crucial evidence for not just the NIA but also four other agencies, including the CBI which is probing the violation of Foreign Contribution Regulation Act (FCRA) in the LIFE Mission project.

For, Sandeep knew the modus operandi behind the gold smuggling and financial transactions. Also, a CBI officer said the kickback for awarding ₹20-crore worth of housing project under LIFE Mission was transferred by Unitac Builders to Sandeep's account and it was through him that Unitac became familiar with Swapna Suresh, another gold smuggling accused.

The NIA Court, which examined Sandeep – the fourth accused who is in Viyyur Central Jail – via videoconferencing on Wednesday, allowed his petition expressing willingness to give a confession statement. The Ernakulam Chief Judicial Magistrate Court (CJMC) will assign a magistrate to record his statement under CrPC Section 164. The NIA said it will approach the CJMC.

While examining Sandeep, the NIA Court told him that there was no guarantee that he will be made approver or granted a pardon and that his statement will be used as evidence. Sources in the NIA said only after examining his statement will the NIA take a call on making him an approver.

> It was his (Sandeep's) idea to use Swapna for smuggling gold as she had good connections in the UAE Consulate and shared a rapport with the UAE consul-general
> ED officer

"He volunteered to record his statement. Usually, we approach the court to record the statement under CrPC Section 164 if any person is to be made an approver in a case. However, even if he is not made an approver, Sandeep's statement will be used as evidence," said a source.

Besides NIA, the statement will aid Customs, Enforcement Directorate (ED) and Income Tax, which are probing cases related to the gold smuggling.

As for the CBI, the officer added, "Sandeep's statement can give us details about how the housing project at Wadakkanchery was initiated and how UAE-based Red Crescent came into the picture."

MAGNETIC NANOMOTORS TO SHED MORE LIGHT ON CANCER

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

RESEARCH from the Indian Institute of Science (IISc) may pave way for better understanding of progression of cancer. Using a 3D tissue culture microenvironment that mimics breast cancer, a team of researchers from the Centre for Nano Science and Engineering (CeNSE) and Department of Molecular Reproduction, Development and Genetics (MRDG), used magnetic nanomotors to learn more about cancers.

The nanomotors were remotely taken through the tumour model of healthy and cancer cells to sense, map and quantify changes in the cellular environment.

Debayan Dasgupta, a co-first author and PhD student at CeNSE, and his team observed that the nanomotors were getting stuck near the cancer cells because of the latter's extracellular matrix (ECM). This was not the case with normal cells. ECM is a complex 3D network of proteins and carbohydrates that any living cell secretes into its neighbourhood.

The researchers set out to calculate the magnetic field strength required to overcome the adhesive force of the ECM and measure how strongly the nanomotors were binding to the matrix.

The work was published in the chemistry journal, Angewandte Chemie, recently.

The findings have applications in cancer diagnosis and imaging, quantification of cancer aggression and in vivo drug delivery applications. They also establish a potential of magnetic nanomotors for fundamental studies of cancer mecanobiology, said the researchers.

The researchers found that the nanomotors were sticking to the cancer cells better because of their charged ECM.

They tried coating nanomotors with Perfluorooctyltriethoxysilane and noticed that they did not stick to the matrix near cancer cells.

Cancer cells, which secrete fresh material into their ECM, degrade the local environment by disrupting the chemical and physical composition of the native ECM of healthy cells.

The researchers tried to understand how this microenvironment altered because of cancer cells. Measuring these changes quantitatively could be vital in understanding the progression of cancer, said the researchers.

Colleges won't start offline classes in K'taka

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA
@Bengaluru

OFFLINE classes for college students will not begin from Thursday, as announced by Higher Education Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan earlier. For now, online classes will continue till further announcements are made, department officials said. The recent UGC guidelines approving the academic calendar for first year students of undergraduate and postgraduate courses seem to have impacted the state's decision.

"Nothing is finalised about offline classes yet. The UGC recently announced the date of admission for new entrants as November 1. We are also waiting for fresh guidelines from UGC and Ministry of Home Affairs. We will take a decision based on that," said Commissioner for Higher Education Pradeep P. But a top UGC official said that there will be no fresh guidelines from the commission.

Bhushan Patwardhan, Vice-Chairman, UGC, told TNIE that November 1 is the starting date for other semester students too. The schedule for first-year students was given as admissions had to be held, he added.

An official from Dr Narayan's office said that the minister will hold a meeting with top officials in two days and then announce the dates for offline classes for college students.

Mining industry in a hole

PRAMODKUMAR VAIDYA AND KIRAN BALANNANAVAR
@Hubballi/Ballari

THE Rs 3,000 crore mining industry in the Ballari region that was hit severely by the Covid-induced lockdown has not restored fully, though it has been weeks since restrictions have been lifted. Mining companies have commenced operations, but not back to their capacity levels due to lack of labourers, who went to their hometowns during the lockdown.

The industry even otherwise was on a low keel after the Supreme Court banned mining activities in 2011 and allowed only Grade A and B fields to start operations in 2015. But the mining activities were recovering when the Covid pandemic and the lockdown pushed it back again.

Though Karnataka lifted the lockdown restrictions earlier than other states, lack of labour forced companies to remain shut. The result is that both the labourers and companies are in deep financial distress now.

The industry has sought a financial package to tide over the crisis. But with the government unlikely to extend a helping hand, companies have pleaded with the administration to allow deferred payments of levies, like royalty, contribution to district mineral fund, National Mineral Exploration Trust, etc.

Of the 33 leased mining companies in the region, 20-22 have started operations. As only 30-35 per cent of the 1.5 lakh labour force has returned, operations are restricted and labourers are being deployed in shifts with reduced numbers. Some of these companies have explored ore, but not been able to sell as the overall market is yet to recover.

"The first two months after the pandemic broke out, mining activities came to a complete stop. But the industry has not returned to normal even after lockdown restrictions were lifted because of lack of labourers," said T Ekambaram, owner of Tumpti Iron Minerals, Ballari.

"Due to scarcity of workers and cancelling of night shifts, our working hours have been extended to 10-11 hours. Earlier, we used to work for only eight hours," said Vidyakumar K P, a mine labourer.

Social activist and mining expert Tapal Ganesh admitted that the effect of lockdown is bad on mining companies, but the impact on families depending on the sector is far worse.

COVIDONOMICS PART-9

Agencies and individuals involved in transportation of ore, hotel industry and residential rental properties, which are directly tied to the mining industry, have all been hit and many of them have been pushed into deep debts. Several hotels near mines and even in the city are closed as they were highly dependent on labourers who come from different parts of the county. "Before the lockdown, every day over 700 people, mainly labourers, visited my hotel, but now it has reduced to 200," said Nagaraj Bhat, a hotelier.

"Because of the slump in business, I am in crisis. All my five trucks are parked at the same place for the last few months. For maintenance of these vehicles, I recently sold a truck," said Rajkumar Nayak, who owns a fleet of lorries.

Mines and Geology Department Deputy Director Mahaveer K, however, said that all the 33 leased mines have started operations, but the quantum of production could have gone down during the lockdown as most of the companies had stopped activities. The actual numbers could be found only by March-end, he said and added that mining companies have paid a royalty of Rs 129.97 crore during this fiscal till now.

Joshi's intervention helps

However, there is some good news for the sector with the State Government clearing the application of National Mineral Development Corporation (NMDC) Limited, India's largest iron ore producer, to resume ore exploring at the Donimalai mining field. The mining was suspended there in 2018 after the lease lapsed.

This will avoid further loss of revenue to national and state exchequers, apart from providing the much-needed iron ore to the steel industry. The decks were cleared after Union Minister of Coal and Mines Pralhad Joshi intervened and took up the matter with Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa. Joshi said an income of Rs 647 crore can be expected.

"The lease extension was stuck as the State Government had asked the company to pay a premium of 80 per cent of the sale value of the mineral. I discussed the issue with the chief minister and the decks were cleared," Joshi said.

NO CLOSURE YET OVER DEMOLITION OF BABRI STRUCTURE

With a CBI special court acquitting former BJP chief L K Advani and 31 others who were accused of hatching a plot that led to the demolition of the Babri masjid on 6 December 1992, there was no closure to the question as to how the centuries-old structure that had stood the test of time eventually collapsed within just a few hours when it was attacked. The court was retrying the case after the CBI requested the Supreme Court in 2011 during the UPA-1 regime to revive the conspiracy angle that was dropped a year earlier. By the time it got the SC's go-ahead in 2017, the political climate had changed at the Centre. And CBI courts coming up with findings that go against the line of the party in power are rare.

While CBI judge S K Yadav perhaps went by technicalities to rule that the demolition was spontaneous and blamed the razing on anti-social elements, the harsh fact that there was a massive build-up of kar sevaks in Ayodhya by the VHP at that time, and Advani's Rath Yatra in 1990 created the atmosphere for doing so, cannot be lost sight of. The CBI botched the probe by not following some basic principles, the judge pointed out, saying original copies of the statements made by some accused persons were not submitted. He added that audio cassettes submitted as evidence were tampered with and not sealed. Also, negatives of photographs were not submitted.

Remember, the Supreme Court had last year called the demolition an egregious violation of the rule of law, adding the wrong committed must be remedied. But Wednesday's verdict put a question mark on the ability of the law-enforcing mechanism—from the probe agencies to the judiciary—to deal with mob violence and deliver quick justice. That the judgment came after 28 long years, by which time 16 accused had died, and also due to the prodding of the Supreme Court, itself is a testament to the lax judicial system. As former home secretary Madhav Godbole said, the case was an acid test for the Constitution, "but the system failed the Constitution". It is doubtful if the CBI would want to revisit the case any further.

TELANGANA BJP, CONG TRY TO SHAPE UP

Two opposition parties in Telangana—the Congress and the BJP—appear to have already begun their spadework for the next Assembly elections in 2023, after their humiliating defeat at the hands of the TRS in 2018. The BJP has a new-look executive headed by a BC leader, Bandi Sanjay Kumar, who is also a Lok Sabha member. Another BC leader, Dr K Lakshman, is now president of the BJP's National OBC Morcha. And D K Aruna, a leader from the powerful Reddy community, has been elevated as the party's national vice-president. In the Congress camp, the party appointed Manickam Tagore, an MP from Tamil Nadu, as its in-charge in Telangana. It is strange that the high command chose the comparatively lightweight post of in-charge to oversee the Telangana unit but a general secretary to guide neighbouring Andhra Pradesh where the party has no existence after the state's bifurcation.

The task before the two parties is huge as in the last Assembly elections, the BJP won only one seat in the 119-member House and the Congress 19. Adding insult to injury, CM K Chandrashekar Rao spirited away 13 Congress MLAs. While the Congress remains a divided house riven by factions, the BJP, though a little better, has a lot of hard work to do. The performance of both parties in most elections after the Assembly polls—municipal, gram sarpanch and president of local bodies—has been rather poor. They could not make any dent on the TRS though the Congress picked up three Lok Sabha seats and the BJP four in 2019, which is considered a flash in the pan. To inspire their cadre to take a quantum leap, both parties need to forge an emotional bond with the state's issues and the people. As for the Congress, even after state unit president Uttam Kumar Reddy offered to quit after the Assembly poll debacle, the high command sat on the proposal. It ought to now give Manickam Tagore full powers to put together a team to try and recover lost ground. Needless to say, the turf war will be intense, since KCR is a formidable foe. Whether or not the two parties would rise from the ashes, time alone can tell.

Unorganised workers require an exclusive labour law instead of being boxed into the new Code dedicated to the organised sector

MIGRANT WORKERS NEED MORE ATTENTION

JAWHAR SIRCAR

Retired civil servant. Former Culture Secretary and ex-CEO, Prasar Bharati

AMIT BANDRE

Of the three labour Bills passed by Parliament recently, one has a special dispensation for unorganised workers, who have surely been neglected by successive governments. The utter chaos and largely avoidable pain that migrant labourers, inter-state or intra-state, suffered after the sudden announcement of the nationwide lockdown in March this year is still fresh in people's minds. The Centre and state governments hardly have any updated records on who is a migrant worker and where exactly he/she is working at present. The well-meaning legislation of 1979, the Inter-State Migrant Workmen (Regulation of Employment and Conditions of Service) Act, failed India rather miserably in its hour of crisis.

One expected, therefore, that both unorganised workers and their most vulnerable section, the inter-state migrant workers, would be dealt with more sensitivity. After all, the latest labour legislations may be the final ones for several years to come. We cannot blame only the government as these labour codes were finally screened and vetted by the multi-party parliamentary standing committee—but this was before Covid. Since inter-state migrants cannot vote in their guest states unless they are long-time residents, political parties may have lesser interest in these birds of passage. The terms 'unorganised' and 'migrant labourers' are, of course, not coterminous but the largest chunk of migrant workers belong to the unorganised category. The 2011 Census located 5.6 crore migrant labourers, while the finance minister's estimate was eight crore.

The 1979 Act just fell through the cracks as the labour ministry's machinery was overburdened with labour legislations benefitting the more demanding organised sector and could not prepare a comprehensive database of unorganised and migrant workers. But studies show that the organised part is only 10% of the total workforce, while the unorganised sector accounts for 90%. Within this 90%, not even the voluminous report of the 2007 Arjun Sengupta Committee on "Conditions of Work and Promotion of Livelihoods in the Unorganised Sector" could locate the very fickle percentage of migrants. If we extrapolate its numbers, we find that unorganised workers may account for some 53.8 crore at present and organised workers just above six crore—within India's present estimated population of 138 crore. Yet, even the latest labour codes focus almost entirely on the 10% in the organised sector, as always. Perhaps, the deadline of getting the laws passed in the Monsoon Session of Parliament meant that it was too late to insert special provisions for migrant labour.

The latest Occupational Safety, Health and Working Conditions Code does, of course, have a promising chapter on unorganised workers. But it is all couched in so much bureaucratese that only lawyers or touts can navigate the system. Section 112 of this Code provides for setting up "workers' facilitation centres" to assist them, but we have many such pious intentions strewn all over our law books. We are not sure what happened to the labour ministry's intention to undertake a census of workers in the unorganised sector announced in 2015. It promised to assign them unique identity cards, linked to Aadhaar, for getting social security benefits, health insurance and old-age pension. Frankly, unorganised workers really require an exclusive labour law instead of being boxed into the new Code dedicated to the organised sector. Or at least its migrant workers surely warrant special attention. Incidentally, while almost all the major old labour Acts have been subsumed by the new Code, the failed Inter-State Migrant Workmen Act of 1979 has not been tackled.

> One expected that inter-state migrant workers would be dealt with more sensitivity now. After all, the latest labour legislations may be the final ones for several years to come. We cannot blame only the government as these labour codes were finally screened and vetted by the multi-party parliamentary standing committee—but this was before Covid

Nevertheless, we can still make a start with electronic registration of migrant labourers; Section 111 of the Code provides for this option. Since they are always moving around, a unique QR code can easily be used (as for digital phone payments) and their current location determined by any smartphone. At the next place, the same location identification process can be repeated. This means that the previously insurmountable problem of locating a migrant worker can finally be tackled. Emergency relief in the form of direct cash benefit and food from ration shops under the Pradhan Mantri Garib Kalyan Anna Yojana could surely be linked to this coded card. For additional verification, the migrant worker's fingerprint could also be read by a smartphone. Of course, all such workers would not need to purchase or keep a smartphone, but they could access any one of the 50 crore smartphones available with every second adult in India—to mark their current location and address.

This labour welfare Code provides for a lot of benefits but these can only be implemented when funds are available or the proposed cess is levied. Our major overriding concern is, however, to ensure that some identification system is in position so that if a nationwide or regional crisis ever befalls us again, migrant labourers do not go through living hell. If only we knew who was where after March 25, relief could have been rushed to them there as soon as intentions and schemes were finalised. Most of them may actually have stayed back in their place of work and not scrambled to leave for home at any cost. Besides, migrants returning home may not have taken Covid-19 from urban habitats so deep into rural India.

UN REFORMS: TAKING THE MODI MESSAGE FORWARD

N SATHIYA MOORTHY

Distinguished Fellow and Head-Chennai Initiative, Observer Research Foundation

Conveying the "sentiments of 1.3 billion people of India" in the annual address to the UN General Assembly, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said matter-of-factly: "...it is also true that the people of India have been waiting for a long time for the completion of the reforms of the United Nations. Today, people of India are concerned whether this reform process will ever reach its logical conclusion."

In the same vein, he asked, more out of frustration at the past than desperation about the future: "For how long will India be kept out of the decision-making structures of the United Nations? A country, which is the largest democracy of the world, a country with more than 18% of the world population, a country, which has hundreds of languages, hundreds of dialects, many sects, many ideologies, a country, which was a leading global economy for centuries and also one which has seen hundreds of years of foreign rule." In effect, a world within the world.

It was typical Modi-speak. The reference is to the long-pending Indian aspirations to become a permanent member of the UN Security Council, where as Modi noted, beginning January, India will fill an elected, non-permanent seat for a term.

Whither UN?:

As the prime minister pointed out, the world is caught in the web of the Covid pandemic and has no time for what someone out there may dismiss as an 'India lament'. The prime minister listed out India's contributions to the world over the years. He recalled how more Indian soldiers had died peace-keeping for the UN than counterparts from other countries.

Restricting himself to the recent years (for obvious domestic political reasons), Modi referred to India's 'Neighbourhood First' Policy and how it has proved itself as a good, large and large-hearted neighbour—and without mala fide intent, as he pointed out.

In particular, India rushed Covid-related aid material to as many as 150 countries (out of a total of 193 member-states in the UN, or three-fourths of the total membership), Modi said. It could well be the highest number for any nation, including the so-called developed ones, to have sent out help in these testing times.

Using Covid-care as yet another peg, the prime minister seemed to be looking at the world body straight into its eyes: "Were the efforts of the United Nations sufficient during those times or are these efforts adequate even today? ... Where is the United Nations in this joint fight against the pandemic? Where is its effective response?"

It was again typical Modi-speak, and taken to the world body and to the larger world outside—their national leaderships. India has made UN reforms a world cause, and the Indian demand for a permanent UNSC seat an element within that larger and ever more urgent requirement of mankind as a whole. India now needs to take it to the logical conclusion, but leading the Third World, with First World nations like Germany and Japan, too, already signing in.

> India has made UN reforms a world cause, and the Indian demand for a permanent UNSC seat an element within that larger and ever more urgent requirement of mankind as a whole. India now needs to take it to the logical conclusion, but leading the Third World, with First World nations like Germany and Japan already signing in

For the Third World, India's present-day contributions go beyond the spiritual, yet are as much as they were during the closing years of colonial rule across the globe—after a gap. For individual nations, the taste of their food is in the eating. It has to go beyond pulpit talks to hard, behind-the-scenes diplomacy. It requires hard talk and harder decisions, at times involving our friends and allies.

In the neighbourhood, in particular, India still needs to fine-tune its perceptions of balancing traditional political and cultural linkages with its postmodern self-styled 'R2P' (Responsibility to Protect) actions. In effect, it is all about India's friends outsourcing their quaint perceptions that most of them do not apply to the self. And India needs to begin its UN and global ride with all neighbours (sans Pakistan, of course) by its side, but unaffected by customary/periodic domestic political swings in individual nations.

Humanitarian enterprise:

This is where India's idea of Vasudhaiva Kudumbam is at work, not only as a political idea or a social contract, but even more as a humanitarian enterprise. In his UNGA appearance in person last year, Modi quoted the Tamil equivalent (not a translation), a line from pre-Christendom poet Kaniyan Poongundranar: "Yaadhum Oore Yaavarum Kelir". It means that as Indians, "we belong to all places and to everyone".

The last time around, the prime minister said that this sense of belonging beyond the borders is unique to India. What he did not say then or now is that both the Sanskrit and Tamil lines spoke only the language of love, caring and sharing, commodities that have been in the Indian DNA for millennia, and are in short supply elsewhere.

Right now, India needs to produce the promising and promised pandemic vaccine and share it with the world, which the patent-conscious West would not dare. The world could be India's, and possibly India's alone then!

Along predictable lines

The CBI court's verdict acquitting all the accused in the Babri Masjid demolition case was along predictable lines. It says there was no conspiracy at all, though the Supreme Court had called it a 'calculated act'. Then again, when was the last time there was a verdict unfavourable to the elected executive, especially in a CBI court?

Kurian Mathew, Kochi

Not a pre-planned conspiracy

The court said it was not a pre-planned conspiracy. Whatever be the arguments of both sides, it is a known fact that below the structure, the ASI found the remains of a temple in the birthplace of Lord Ram that is supposed to have been destroyed by Babur.

Women still unsafe in India

The news about the gang-rape of a woman in Hathras, UP, and her subsequent death was disturbing. It highlights how unsafe women still are in the country, especially the marginalised. The culprits must be punished quickly. Justice delayed is justice denied.

Swarupini Patnaik, Cuttack

Another wake-up call

It is heart-wrenching that women continue to fall prey to rapists in our country. One wonders why this continues to happen despite many laws in place to protect women. The problem is that they are not effectively interconnected to become useful to the average citizen. The death of this newest victim must be the wake-up call that alters this trend.

S Lakshmi, email

Tackling sexual violence

Women are falling victim to rapists despite stringent punishment guaranteed by law—even the death penalty. The police must play their part in enforcing these punishments. Maybe the government should consider bringing in legislation that leaves the convicted at the mercy of the victim's family to infuse fear into any possible future offenders.

K R Parvathy, Mysuru

Fast-track judicial process

It is indeed very sad that despite strict anti-rape laws enacted in the wake of the Nirbhaya rape in 2012, violence against women continues unabated. The Hathras case accused should be tried in a fast-track court and the maximum punishment should be awarded.

Sudhakar Cherukunnu, Kannur

Race for TRPs

This is with reference to What can be done about trial by media? (Sep 30). Since news telecast on TV can spread quickly among people, channels should be careful. It is regretful that channels are more focused on spreading rumours due to heavy competition for TRPs nowadays. It is high time this is stopped before punitive action by the authorities.

V N Subramanyam, Bengaluru

Trial by media

The article rightly said that trial by media has had devastating effects on the accused as well as viewers in many cases. There needs to be a vigilance commission for the media so as to avoid any breach of the essential rights of citizens.

Farming and environment

This is with reference to Making agriculture eco-friendly (Sep 30). The editorial has rightly said that farming is one of the main reasons for major depletion of forest cover globally. Policies must be framed by governments to ensure a balance between agriculture and the environment.

Radhika Kumar, Chennai

No safety net

This is with reference to New industrial code may lift safety net for labour (Sep 30). Since most of our country's labour force is employed by MSMEs, there will be no safety net for them as the establishments may be able to shut down their units at any time without needing government permission. This can be disheartening for the workforce.

MUSLIM LEADERS DISAPPOINTED, CONSIDER MOVING HIGH COURT

AIMPLB, clerics call the verdict a betrayal; ask if there was no conspiracy then who demolished Babri Masjid

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

THE acquittal of all 32 accused in the Babri Masjid demolition case drew disappointment from Muslims, with many community leaders calling for challenging it in a higher court.

The common refrain was: if all the accused are set free, then who was responsible for the demolition of the 16th century structure in Ayodhya on December 6, 1992?

Zafaryab Jilani, convenor of the Babri Masjid Action Committee, rejected the CBI court order. Jilani, a senior lawyer and member of the All India Muslim Personal Law Board (AIMPLB), said the verdict would be challenged. "The judgment is neither based on evidence nor is as per law. It is against the criminal justice system of the country. The observation of the court over the lack of evidence is wrong. There is enormous evidence to nail the accused. We will now approach the high court to challenge this verdict," he said.

The AIMPLB and Muslim religious leaders echoed the same sentiment and called the verdict a betrayal. "We have always believed in the judiciary of the country. The Supreme Court in its November 9, 2019 verdict had acknowledged that the destruction of Babri mosque in Ayodhya was unlawful. We will discuss today's verdict and chart out the future course of action," said cleric and AIMPLB member Maulana Khaild Rashid Firangi Mahali.

Prominent Shia cleric Maulana Kalbe Jawwad said the decision should be legally challenged. The Jamiat Ulema-e-Hind said the verdict was contrary to the top court's 2019 observation that the demolition was an "egregious violation of the rule of law". "Is this justice or is it the failure of justice? Will this decision restore public confidence in the court?" Jamiat president Maulana Arshad Madani said.

Haji Mehboob, an Ayodhya-based litigant of the Ram Janmabhoomi-Babri Masjid title suit, also vowed to challenge the order. "It is a joke. Those who boasted of having demolished the structure have been acquitted. Is it right?" he asked.

However, one the main litigants of the title, Iqbal Ansari, accepted the verdict with a heavy heart. "This should have been a closed chapter after the Supreme Court's verdict last year. Everyone knows what happened to the mosque in Ayodhya. Now, since the CBI court has acquitted all, we accept the decision. What is the choice?" asked Ansari. He represented his father late Hashim Ansari in the SC. Common Muslims, too, took the verdict as a hard fact. "We had accepted the SC order. I don't have much to say," said Rizwan Ahmad, a post-graduate student of political science at Lucknow University. Shazia Siddiqui, a social activist, believes justice has not been done. "No right thinking citizen of the country would accept today's verdict," she said.

However, Faizan, a vegetable vendor, said the temple issue was the handiwork of the Congress. "They are responsible for what happened in Ayodhya in 1992. They got the locks opened .They allowed the first shilanyas. It is all because of the Congress," he said.

In 2017, SC had revived the charges

New Delhi: The special court in Lucknow cited lack of evidence to acquit all 32 accused, but the SC had in 2017 revived the charges against many BJP leaders while setting aside the Allahabad HC ruling. Last year, a five-judge constitution bench of the SC called the demolition a calculated act and "egregious violation of law" while deciding the Ram Janmabhoomi-Babri Masjid title suit. In 2017, the top court called the high court order erroneous and revived the criminal conspiracy charges against senior BJP leaders, including L K Advani, Murli Manohar Joshi and Uma Bharti. The Supreme Court also expressed concern over the delay in completing the trial and observed that the case had been pending for 17 years due to technical defects and "we want to do justice by using our powers in the Constitution". During the title suit verdict, the court had noted that "it is necessary to provide restitution to the Muslim community for the unlawful destruction of their place of worship". In the November 9, 2019 ruling, the SC held that a wrong committed must be remedied.

Neither spontaneous nor unplanned, said Liberhan

SANA SHAKIL @New Delhi

A special CBI court acquitted all 32 accused in the Babri Masjid demolition case on Wednesday and said there was no premeditated conspiracy to raze the structure, in stark contrast to the findings given by the Liberhan Commission, which had held that the demolition was "well-orchestrated and planned".

The special court said a section of karsevaks abruptly got agitated, which led to violence and that the demolition happened "in the spur of a moment". Whereas, the commission was convinced that the "events of the day were neither spontaneous nor unplanned nor an unforeseen overflowing of the people's emotions, nor the result of a foreign conspiracy."

"How can then it be said that there was a meeting of minds and that all of them had the same objective to bring down the structure?" the court asked.

While special Judge SS Yadav stated that 'kar seva' itself was not unlawful since it was being carried out following permission from the SC, which had not put a cap on the number of people allowed, the panel had pointed out the mobilisation of such a large number of 'karsevaks' could not have been for symbolic karseva alone. Although judge Yadav gave a clean chit to all the accused, including BJP and VHP veterans LK Advani, Murli Manohar Joshi, Ashok Singhal etc. for lack of evidence, the Liberhan commission had found "individual culpability" on the part of all the accused.

"It can't be assumed even for a moment that Advani or Joshi did not know the designs of the Sangh Parivar. They were party to the decisions which had been taken," the panel had stated in its report, compiled over a period of 17 years.

Acquitting then CM Kalyan Singh, the court held that he did all in his capacity to ensure law and order in the state. In contrast, the commission had held that Singh "refused to allow even a single measure which might impede the Ayodhya campaign or prevent the assault on the disputed structures, the journalists or the innocent public.

"Kalyan Singh, his ministers and his handpicked bureaucrats created man-made and cataclysmic circumstances which could result in no consequences other than the demolition of the disputed structure and broadened the cleavage between the two religious communities resulting in massacres all over the country...," stated the report that ran into 1000-pages.

'Verdict will spur people to take law into their hands'

SANA SHAKIL @ New Delhi

MADHAV Godbole, who was the Union home secretary when the mosque was demolished 28 years ago, is "disappointed" at the special CBI court finding "no criminal conspiracy" in the demolition. He feels the judgment would encourage people to take law in their own hands and embolden them to claim the disputed sites in Mathura and Varanasi.

The former bureaucrat also wants the role of CBI to be investigated as to why the agency did not produce adequate evidence in court.

When asked about his views on the court calling the demolition a "spur of the moment" incident, Godbole said, "You cannot bring down the whole structure in five hours by 'spur of the moment' action, without any planning or preparation on part of anybody. The meaning of the judgment is quite clear — that nothing went wrong."

Godbole, who had prepared a contingency plan — that was not approved by the then prime minister P V Narasimha Rao — to avoid what happened on December 6, 1992, elaborated, "I thought at least so far as this criminal act of demolishing Babri Masjid is concerned, all those who were responsible, whosoever they are, will be held guilty. But...that has not been possible. And the only way to set this right is to go to a higher court in appeal."

Asked if he considers this a closure for victims of the communal riots that broke out across India in the aftermath of the demolition, Godbole said, "This is not the closure as far as the common man is concerned. But for the government, this will be a closure. This judgment is disappointing and if the court has come to the conclusion that the evidence was not enough for them to take any other view, then this decision must be appealed in the high court and, if necessary, in the SC because it needs to be established at the highest level that there was no conspiracy."

He said it should be probed why the CBI "was not in a position to produce enough evidence or why it did not produce adequate evidence". The CBI should be given more autonomy to ensure fair probe, he said

Godbole added, "This judgment will only encourage people to take law in their own hands with the belief that the law will not catch up with them. ...This kind of judgment will encourage people to take recourse to other demands such as claims of disputed sites in Mathura and Varanasi.

"Demands have been made to amend Places of Worship (Special Provisions) Act, 1991, which seeks to maintain the religious character of holy structures as it was at the time of Independence. This will be unending till you come to the crux of the problem, which is to separate religion from politics."

CBI failed to follow norms on proof

KANU SARDA @New Delhi

THE CBI ought to hold itself responsible for failing to follow even basic norms while bringing evidence on record, which led to the acquittal of all 32 accused in the Babri masjid demolition case.

Special Judge S K Yadav in his 2,300-page ruling said photocopies and not originals of the statements made by some accused persons were submitted, which cannot be relied on. Also, audio cassettes were tampered with and not sealed. Besides, negatives of photographs were not submitted.

"All the speeches, clippings of newspapers which were not testified, photographs don't show an iota of evidence that the accused persons hatched the conspiracy together," the judge concluded.

Dissecting the submitted speeches, he said, the recordings of slogans raised by a specific accused did not correlate with the voice samples of that person. On the prosecution witnesses claiming that some of the accused raised the slogan ek dhakka aur do Babri masjid tod do (give one more push to demolish Babri masjid), no record or matching voice samples were presented, he pointed out.

Regarding the statements submitted by the CBI, the verdict said the testimonies of the witnesses recorded under 161 CrPC and what was said in court do not match. Also, none of the witnesses took direct name of the accused persons, it added.

CBI'S CONVICTION RATE DECLINES

With a Special CBI Court on Wednesday acquitting 32 accused, including BJP leaders LK Advani, MM Joshi and Uma Bharti, in the Babri Masjid demolition case, the agency's conviction rate is a parameter that can be looked at. According to official data, the CBI's conviction has declined from almost 71 per cent in 2010 to 68 per cent in 2019. Also, the agency has failed to achieve convictions in many high profile cases such as the 2G scam, the illegal mining scam of Karnataka and the Aarushi Talwar murder mystery. "In many cases, the CBI forms a correct theory about the crime committed but fails to achieve convictions as they find it difficult to prove it in the court,"

Judge 'sacrificed' promotion to complete demolition trial

KANU SARDA @ New Delhi

SURENDRA Kumar Yadav, the special CBI judge, never knew that conducting trial in such a high-profile case would deprive him of a promotion and yet, get him a year's extension in service post-retirement.

Yadav, who belongs to Jaunpur district in UP, began his career in 1990 with his first posting at Faizabad. Yadav has been hearing the Babri Masjid case since 2015. In August last year, the SC directed the UP government to extend the tenure of the special judge.

He was elevated as district and sessions judge and posted to Badaun in 2019, but the order was cancelled the same day on the ground that the SC had ruled that the judge hearing the Babri case would not be transferred till the trial was complete. Hence, he continued to function as additional district judge.

Yadav had to move the Supreme Court last year complaining that the Babri case was stalling his promotion and requested that he be relieved and given the posting he was entitled to after the promotion order.

His batch mates and juniors had been already appointed district judges, Yadav said in his plea, urging that he be allowed to file an application seeking recall of the court's notification that had said the judge should not be transferred till the hearing in the Babri Masjid demolition case was complete.

Yadav was due to retire on September 30, 2019, but got an extension after the SC asked the UP government to do so.

'Hawa mein goli chalao, said cop, but paramilitary walked away'

V N ARORA

THERE was nothing unusual on December 6, 1992, a bright Sunday winter morning. The Vishwa Hindu Parishad had given a call for kar sewa at Ayodhya. It seemed a routine call as the VHP had been doing so since 1984.

Responding to the VHP, kar sewaks, both men and women, had thronged the temple town in hordes from almost every nook and corner of the country. They started pouring in since November 28 and by December 4, the town had lakhs of kar sewaks. Makeshift camps were set up for them.

On the day the nation's political narrative changed forever, frenetic activity started around 10.30 am when kar sewaks in large numbers started congregating around a concrete platform built by the VHP for performing puja and a symbolic kar sewa. This platform was located at the 2.77 acre disputed site adjacent to the Babri masjid.

Senior BJP and VHP leaders, Including L K Advani, Murli Manohar Joshi, Uma Bharti and Vinay Katiyar, accompanied by saints also arrived in Ayodhya with sacred water and sand from the river Saryu to perform puja. But the leaders remained at the Ram Katha museum, 500 metres from the spot where the puja was being performed.

Around 11.45 am, the DM and SSP of Faizabad took a round of the complex where the puja and kar sewa had already started. Except for a few provocative slogans from some sections of the crowd, there was nothing to suggest that things would go horribly wrong hours later.

At 11:55 am, loud whistles suddenly went off. This was probably a signal as a few teenaged kar sewaks started climbing the 14-feet raised platform and jumping over the barbed wire fence that separated the platform and the mosque.

The UP Police's Provincial Armed Constabulary personnel and some mahants tried to stop the kar sewaks. RSS volunteers also pushed them back. But the kar sewaks later returned, this time armed with bricks and iron rods.

They broke the barricades and climbed the masjid. It took everyone by surprise and the kar sewaks used pickaxes, hammers, shovels and even the uprooted rods of the barricades to dig at the domes.

During all this the police and paramilitary personnel inside the disputed structure remained mute spectators. In the next 75 minutes the first dome of the masjid had been considerably damaged.

This is when the para military men started leaving the disputed structure. A senior police official shouted at them: "Arre kuchch to karo, hawa mein hi goli chalao (Do something, at least fire in the air)." But none reacted and they walked away silently.

There was cheering each time a dome came down. By dusk the third dome had collapsed and the mosque reduced to rubble.

Dalit, women rights activists lash out at 'systemic failure', seek UP Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath's resignation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

HIGHLIGHTING the 'systemic failure' of government apparatus, Dalit and women rights organisations condemned the Uttar Pradesh Police for cremating the Hathras gang-rape victim in the dead of night without allowing the family to have a last glimpse of the girl at their home.

While there was outrage on the virtual world with hashtags such as 'HathrasHorrorShocksIndia' and #HathrasCase trending, celebrities and activists came out to support the demand of Dalit rights groups that the government should immediately uphold the rights of Dalit women and minors.

The victim's brother has claimed that the police forcibly took the body and his father for cremation as soon as they reached Hathras.

National Dalit Movement for Justice and the All India Dalit Mahila Adhikar Manch said India yet again failed to protect the Dalit women. "The level of brutality and inhumanity continues even after the demise of the victim, as the UP police forcibly cremated the body in the early morning," said a joint statement from the organisations. "A large part of society still needs to be informed about the steep rise in the brutality against Dalit women and minors amid the pandemic."

Beena Pallical of National Campaign on Dalit Human Rights termed the incident as a 'systemic failure'. "Even in her death, the state did not give her any dignity. This is an example of the systemic failure of the state which is complicit with the police, and of state appratus being hand in glove with the dominant caste," she asserted.

Slamming the UP government, All India Progressive Women's Association secretary Kavita Krishnan demanded the resignation of Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath. "Treat the secret midnight cremation of the victim's body without the presence of her parents and family as a caste atrocity. Demand that the CM resign for this atrocity on his watch." Krishnan wrote.

While advocate senior advocate Menaka Guruswamy pointed out why caste matters in such cases, writer-lyricist Javed Akhtar expressed outrage and said. "The UP police cremated the body of the rape victim of Hathras in the night without the permission or even the presence of the family. It leaves us with a question. What makes them confident that they will get away with this audacity. Who has given them this assurance?" Akhtar posted.

PIL in SC for CBI probe in gang rape case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

A PIL was filed in the Supreme Court on Wednesday seeking a CBI probe or SIT investigation under a sitting or former Supreme Court or High Court judge in the gruesome gangrape and murder of a 19-year-old Dalit woman in Uttar Pradesh's Hathras district.

The PIL has been filed by social activist Satyama Dubey and advocates Vishal Thakre and Rudra Pratap Yadav. The petitioners urged the apex court to pass appropriate order for a fair investigation — either by the CBI or the SIT under a sitting or retired judge of Supreme Court or High Court — and transfer the case to Delhi, as Uttar Pradesh authorities had failed to take certain actions against the accused.

The plea said the victim was first raped and then brutally assaulted, and according to a medical report, her tongue was chopped and her neck and back bones broken by the accused, who belonged to an upper caste. The victim succumbed to her injuries at Safdarjung hospital in Delhi.

The petitioner said on September 14, the accused persons raped and brutally assaulted the victim when she was in the fields to collect fodder for her cattle. It also said that the police have said the victim's cremation was being carried out as per the wishes of the family, which was not true, and the police personnel set fire to the body of the deceased, even as media persons were banned, as per the information received, said the plea.

The plea claimed the police did not perform their duties towards the victim. PTI inputs

WE ARE BEING THREATENED, ALLEGES KIN

SOMRITA GHOSH @ New Delhi

PAST 48 hours have been an ordeal for the family of the 19-year-old rape victim from Boolgarhi village in Hathras.

"All that we want is that the top police officers should be suspended because they cremated her body on their own will forcefully," said Sanjeev, a relative of the Dalit girl.

The family also claimed threat from the accused. "We now constantly fear for our lives. We are being threatened that once the matter is settled, they will seek revenge on us. They are Thakurs; the whole issue is about caste," he claimed.

Sanjeev said the victim's father was forcefully taken by UP Police for a meeting with the CM. "What protection will the police provide to us? They are beating us up," he alleged.

Sanjeev said, "All that her parents want is the culprits to be hanged, but honestly, we don't have much hope."

COVID-19

'Most casualties within 5 days of hospitalisation'

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi

THE largest and the first full scope analysis of the coronavirus pandemic in India, based on over 1,24,000 patients, has so far found that the average time to death after admission in hospitals in the country is just five days.

In contrast, in the US, most who died of Covid-19, succumbed nearly 13 days after the hospital admission while in China, this duration was upto 2-3 weeks as per the World Health Organisation.

The study 'Epidemiology and Transmission Dynamics of Covid-19 in the two Indian States', based on analysis of patients in Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh also found that more than half of the fatalities occurred within 6 days after testing and 18 % within 24 hours, implying that a substantial proportion of patients were diagnosed late.

Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh have been the two of the worst hit states in the pandemic despite having one of the best health infrastructures in the country. By August 1, till when the analysis was carried out, Tamil Nadu had over 2.6 lakh confirmed Covid-19 cases while Andhra Pradesh had over 1.6 lakh official cases.

For the study, clinical details and transmission dynamics of over 1 lakh patients in Tamil Nadu and more than 22,000 patients in Andhra Pradesh were analysed

The researchers associated with the Centre for Disease Dynamics, Economics and Policy, John Hopinks and Princeton Universities in the US and several government institutions in the two states found that the transmission risk from an index case to a close contact does not change with the age of the index case.

This underscores the role of children and young adults in spreading the infection. While a study in the US has already shown the role of children, this is first from India to nail that pattern here. Also, the research has thrown up the first large-scale data on secondary attack rates in India — 1.2% in healthcare settings, 2.6% in the community, and 9% within households.

Importantly, the findings from the study, published in the prestigious journal Science, also inferred that superspreading events dominate transmission and the contact tracing analysis found that about 83 per cent of infected individuals did not infect any of their contacts, while 5% of infected individuals accounted for about 80% of observed new infections.

NCW chief seeks explanation from Uttar Pradesh govt

"WHEN my father reached Hathras, he was immediately taken to the cremation ground by the police," the victim's brother said. The body was cremated around 3 am by the police despite the fact that cremations usually don't take place at night.

The district police and administration refuted the allegations. Hathras SP Vikrant Veer denied any "urgency" by the police. Magistrate Praveen Kumar Lakshakar said the family's claims were false while joint magistrate Prem Prakash Meena claimed last rites were performed with the family's cooperation.

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Narendra Modi spoke to CM Yogi Adityanath and called for strictest action against the culprits. The state government set up a three-member Special Investigation Team to probe the incident and submit its report within a week. "We will take the case to a fast-track court and ensure strictest punishment for the perpetrators. The state government stands by the bereaved family," CM Yogi said. He spoke to the family via video-link and promised all help.

The CM announced a financial assistance of ₹25 lakh for the family. He also promised a government job to one of her family members and a house in Hathras city. However, the Opposition parties went all guns blazing at the Yogi government while protests erupted across UP and in Delhi. A plea was filed in the Supreme Court seeking a court-monitored probe and transfer of the case to Delhi. The NHRC issued notices to the UP government and police chief. National Commission for Women chairperson Rekha Sharma sought an explanation from the DGP for cremation of the body without the family's involvement.

'Gandhigiri' to check corona spread

To control the rapidly rising Covid cases, the Ashok Gehlot government will resort to 'Gandhigiri' for urging people to use masks at public places and to follow other health protocols. From Gandhi Jayanti, the government will begin a mass awareness campaign so that people are encouraged to make full use of masks and follow Covid norms. It was observed that people have stopped wearing masks and following other Covid norms in weeks which has led to a sharp rise in cases. Gehlot will launch this campaign which aims to make people realise that they can do their bit in this fight. "All efforts can be successful only if people maintain discipline. If this 'Gandhigiri' movement is accepted and they make it a genuine Mass Movement, then it will help a great deal in checking the spread of the infection," the CM said.

Taunts fly as 1st presidential debate turns into shouting match

Revamp of presidential debate set up on the cards to maintain order at next fixture

CLEVELAND

DEMOCRAT Joe Biden told a raging US President Donald Trump to "shut up" in a chaotic opening debate that turned almost immediately into a shouting match weeks ahead of the most tense election in recent memory.

The debate in Cleveland, Ohio, was as bad-tempered as had been feared prompting US Commission on Presidential Debates (CPD) to intervene. The Commission said on Wednesday it will enact new measures to "maintain order" at upcoming events.

"Last night's debate made clear that additional structure should be added to the format of the remaining (two) debates to ensure a more orderly discussion of the issues," the CPD said in a statement.

The first presidential debate between Donald Trump and Joe Biden in Cleveland, Ohio, was as bad-tempered as had been feared | AFP

As the debate started, political observers expected the Republican incumbent to come out swinging, but it was the 77-year-old former vice president who ended up calling Trump a "clown" and a "liar."

"Everything he's saying so far is simply a lie. I'm not here to call out his lies," Biden said.

At another moment, amid constant interruptions by the president, which angered even moderator Chris Wallace, Biden retorted: "It's hard to get any word in with this clown. Excuse me, this person."

And he said "Will you shut up, man?"—which immediately was marketed by the Biden campaign on tee-shirts.

When Wallace asked Trump to directly say whether he had paid more than $750 in income tax in those years, not in any other taxes, he at first deflected and when pressed, said he had paid "millions of dollars."

"Show us your tax returns," demanded Biden. "You'll get to see it," Trump replied, without saying when.

Wallace asked both candidates to comment on the race tensions in America in recent months.

When the moderator asked Trump if he would condemn "white supremacists" and ask them to stand down, Trump said he was "willing to do that."

But he added: "Proud Boys, stand back and stand by. But I'll tell you what... somebody's got to do something about Antifa."

The Proud Boys, a far-right extremist group, then appeared to adopt the phrase. Agencies

LIES AND HALF TRUTHS

Donald Trump unleashed a torrent of fabrications and fear-mongering. Joe Biden too at times made statements that are misleading or factually incorrect. Here's a look at some of the lies and misleading statements uttered by the two

DONALD TRUMP

CLAIM

Addressing Joe Biden on US deaths from Covid-19 Trump said, "If you were in charge, it wouldn't be 200,000 people, it would be 2 million people. You didn't want me to ban China, which was heavily infected. ... If we would have listened to you, the country would have been left wide open"

FACT

This is misleading. Biden never came out against Trump's decision to restrict travel from China. He never counseled leaving the country "wide open" in the face of the pandemic

CLAIM

"Drug prices will be coming down 80 or 90%"

FACT

That's a promise, not a reality, and it's a big stretch

There's no plan on the horizon that would lower drug prices as dramatically as Trump claims

CLAIM

Addressing Biden, Trump said, "You didn't do very well on the swine flu. H1N1. You were a disaster"

FACT

For starters, Joe Biden as Barack Obama's vice president wasn't running the federal response to swine flu pandemic in 2009

President Obama declared a public health emergency just two weeks after the first confirmed US case. Trump, in contrast, waited for seven weeks to declare emergency after the first US Covid case

Covid-19 has killed more than 2,00,000 Americans—way more than 12,000 lives lost to H1N1

JOE BIDEN

CLAIM

"There was a peaceful protest in front of the White House. What did he do? He came out of his bunker, had the military do tear gas."

FACT

It was law enforcement, not the military, that used chemical irritants to forcefully remove peaceful protesters from Lafayette Square outside the White House on June 1

And there is no evidence Trump was inside a bunker in the White House as that happened

CLAIM

Trump will be the "first (president) in American history" to lose jobs during his presidency

FACT

Nope. If Trump loses re-election, he would not be the first president in US history to have lost jobs. That happened under Herbert Hoover, the president who lost the 1932 election to Franklin Roosevelt as the Great Depression caused huge job losses

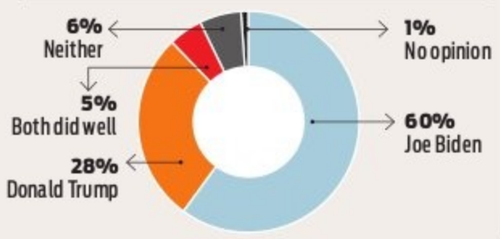
CLAIM

Trump's Supreme Court nominee "Amy Coney Barrett thinks the Affordable Care Act is not constitutional"

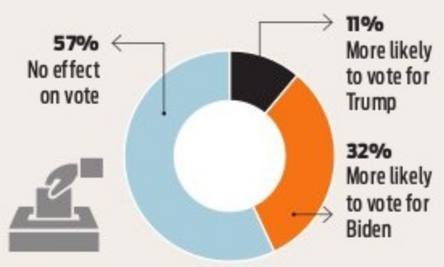
FACT

That's misleading. Barrett has been critical of the Obama-era law and the court decisions that have upheld it, but she has never said it's not constitutional

WHO'S THE WINNER? Here's what a CNN/SSRS interview with 568 registered voters found



IMPACT ON VOTERS



Viewers annoyed

A CBS sampling of 1,039 likely voters who watched the televised debate held in Cleveland, Ohio, had Biden edging Trump by 48% to 41%—a margin similar to that of the national polls heading into the November 3 election. Interestingly, about 69% of those surveyed said the unruly shoutfest left them "annoyed."

Heavy fighting in Karabakh as parties reject peace talks

YEREVAN

HEAVY fighting between Armenian and Azerbaijani forces over the separatist region of Nagorno-Karabakh continued for a fourth straight day on Wednesday, in the biggest escalation of a decades-old conflict in years that has killed dozens and left scores of others wounded.

Azerbaijan's Defense Ministry said Armenian forces started shelling the town of Tartar on Wednesday morning, damaging "civilian infrastructure" and wounding people, while Armenian military officials reported that Azerbaijani forces were bombing positions of the Nagorno-Karabakh army in the north of the war-torn region.

Armenia has repeatedly alleged Turkey's involvement in the conflict. On Wednesday, Armenian officials said Turkish drones and Turkish F-16 fighter jets were being used in Nagorno-Karabakh. Armenia's Foreign Ministry demanded "immediate withdrawal of the Turkish armed forces, including the air force, from the conflict zone."

Turkey has previously denied supplying arms to Azerbaijan, and the ex-Soviet republic said Ankara wasn't involved in the conflict.

People gather around the coffin of an Azeri serviceman reportedly killed fighting Armenian separatists in Nagorno Karabakh region | AFP

The fighting in Nagorno-Karabakh erupted Sunday and has continued despite mounting calls for a cease-fire from around the globe.

Nagorno-Karabakh lies within Azerbaijan but has been under the control of ethnic Armenian forces backed by the Armenian government since 1994 at the end of a separatist war following the breakup of the Soviet Union three years earlier.

On Wednesday, Armenia and Azerbaijan rejected international calls for a halt to fighting and negotiations.

Nearly 100 people are confirmed to have died in the flare-up and both sides are claiming to have inflicted heavy losses on opposing forces. International pressure for a ceasefire has mounted as fears grow that the conflict could escalate into all-out war.

French President Emmanuel Macron, speaking on Wednesday at a news conference in Riga, Latvia, called for talks between France, Russia and the US— the three countries co-chair the Minsk group, set up in 1992 by the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe to resolve the conflict — to mediate.

"I will speak to President Putin tonight and, I think, President Trump tomorrow to discuss and propose an exit strategy" for the crisis, Marcon said. Agencies

Sheikh Nawaf sworn in as Kuwait's new emir

DUBAI

KUWAIT'S Sheikh Nawaf Al Ahmad Al Sabah was sworn in on Wednesday as the ruling emir of the tiny oil-rich country, propelled to power by the death of his half-brother after a long career in security services.

At age 83, Sheikh Nawaf is not expected to deviate from the diplomatic path charted by his predecessor, the late Sheikh Sabah Al Ahmad Al Sabah.

But his accession touched off speculation about who will become the next crown prince in the country known for its lively elected parliament and relative independence in the neighbourhood of Gulf Arab monarchies. PTI

Contraction in core infra sectors continues in Aug

This is the sixth month in a row that the eight core sectors have recorded a decline

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

THE eight core infrastructure sectors continued on their negative growth trend for the sixth month in a row in August, with the crucial segments contracting by 8.5 per cent during the month. The data only shows that the pace of economic recovery likely will be slow.

The eight sectors remain an important gauge for the health of the overall economy since they account for nearly 40 per cent of the country's overall factory output, which is in turn measured by the Index of Industrial Production.

"The combined Index of Eight Core Industries stood at 117.6 in August, 2020, which declined by 8.5 (provisional) per cent as compared to the Index of August, 2019," the Centre said.

Data released by the Commerce and Industry Ministry on Wednesday shows that the production of the eight core sectors had contracted 0.2 per cent in August 2019, while the figure had contracted by 8 per cent in July, 2020. The data also showed that the drag in output was mainly on account of a decline in the production of steel, refinery products and cement.

Barring coal, which returned to the position growth zone, at 3.6 per cent, and fertilizer sector, which showed some improvement at 7.3 per cent growth, all other sectors recorded a negative growth. Cement production contracted by 14.6 per cent during the month, crude oil by 6.3 per cent, natural gas by 9.5 per cent, refinery products by 19.1 per cent, steel by 6.3 per cent, and electricity by 2.7 per cent.

8.5% contraction in core sector for Aug

14.6% contraction in cement

19.1% contraction in refinery products

For the period between the months of April-August 2020-21, the eight core sectors' output contracted by a record 17.8 per cent, mainly as the government revised the shrinkage in the core sector downward, from 9.6 per cent earlier to 8 per cent in July, while in May, it was revised to 21.4 per cent from 22 per cent earlier.

According to Aditi Nayar, Principal Economist at ICRA, "The sharp dip in the contraction in refinery products imposed the chief drag on the performance of the core sector in August 2020, and served as a reminder that there may be intermittent setbacks before the economy fully recovers from the impact of the ongoing crisis".

Timing of second fiscal stimulus round crucial

SUNITHA NATTI

AS the famous saying goes, there's "such a thing as being too late" and the government must sit up and take note. While developed countries, despite plonking down trillions in fiscal stimulus, are readying another round, India's response has been less than desired and very little is heard about Stimulus-2.

This, just when multi-lateral agencies have sounded the bugle about a double-dip recession. Last week, the UN Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) in its Trade and Development Report 2020 cautioned that India may see a growth recovery in 2021 alright, but the contraction this year will likely translate into a permanent income loss. That's worrying because the later the revival efforts come in, the sharper the income losses could be.

The report also warned that there would be no full recovery even if governments continued with current stimulus policies. "Forecasters' talk of a V-shaped recovery can easily mislead. Such a recovery would require double-digit global growth next year, which is out of the question," it noted.

The extent of contraction in India is deepening with analysts revising forecasts upwards—to levels unseen in Indian history—and it remains to be seen if the timing of Stimulus-2 will be a drag on the economy instead of aiding recovery.

A double-dip recession is when recovery begins but fizzles out, leading to contraction. The UN says the global economy will likely begin recovery next year, but fizzle out and contract again in 2022.

This year, notwithstanding the over $7 trillion spent by countries, the global economy is expected to contract by an estimated 4.3 per cent. In other words, about $6 trillion worth of output will be wiped out, which is equivalent to the size of the Brazilian, Indian and Mexican economies together.

"In short, the world is grappling with the equivalent of a complete wipeout of the Brazilian, Indian and Mexican economies. And as domestic activity contracts, so goes the international economy; trade will shrink by around one-fifth this year, foreign direct investment flows by up to 40% and remittances will drop over $100 billion," UNCTAD said. It added that wrong policy steps, ignoring the experience of the global financial crisis, could trigger further shocks which could not only derail recovery but usher in a lost decade.

"The greatest... damage will be in the developing world, where levels of informality are high, commodities and tourism, major sources of foreign exchange, and fiscal space has been squeezed under a mountain of debt," it warned.

90% of Dhanlaxmi Bank shareholders reject appointment of MD & CEO

SESA SEN @ New Delhi

IN yet another banking sector coup, shareholders of Thrissur-based Dhanlaxmi Bank ousted its MD and CEO Sunil Gurbaxani at the annual general meeting (AGM) on Wednesday. Over 90 per cent of shareholders, most with roots in Kerala, voted against the appointment, apparently due to his alleged favouring of investors from North India.

Shareholders were also reportedly concerned that the attempt to rebuild the old private bank with a national focus could erode its regional identity—a potential problem since most of its business is dependent on local communities.

"...we learn that attempts are again being made to open more branches in the northern states, while the bank has inadequate infrastructure to manage the business in those areas," C H Venkatachalam, general secretary of All-India Bank Employees' Association had said in a recent letter to the RBI Governor seeking immediate intervention.

Gurbaxani, it said, had assumed office as CEO in February 2020 after the previous management had caused serious problems in the name of modernisation. But now, even the current management seemed to be headed in the "wrong direction".

This marks the second instance in less than a week where shareholders have ousted RBI-approved CEOs and directors. Just days earlier, shareholders of Lakshmi Vilas Bank rejected the appointment of seven directors, including the MD & CEO, since they were unhappy with the bank's functioning and deteriorating financial situation.

Barring the CEO, Dhanalaxmi shareholders voted in favour of all other appointments proposed at the AGM.

Over the last few months, the bank has exits such as Sanjeev Krishnan, part-time chairman and independent director, who resigned in June with eight months of his term still remaining. The RBI had also sought the termination of a CGM. of the officer.

Meanwhile, it has appointed D K Kashyap, a general manager in its Bengaluru office, as additional director on the Board of Dhanalaxmi Bank on Tuesday.

FACTORY ACTIVITY RISES AT STEADY CLIP

China's factory activity continued to rise in September with exports strengthening due to improving overseas demand and an underlying economic recovery. The official manufacturing Purchasing Manager's Index (PMI) rose to 51.5 in September from 51.0 in August, according to data from the National Bureau of Statistics on Wednesday, remaining above the 50-point mark that separates growth from contraction for the seventh month. PMI, with a focus on big and state-owned firms, also showed that the sub-index for new export orders stood at 50.8 in September, improving from 49.1 a month earlier and snapping eight months of declines. The signs of stronger overseas demand were also highlighted in the Caixin/Markit Manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index, which focuses more on small and export-oriented firms, where its gauge for new export orders rose at the fastest pace in over three years.

Centre won't breach borrowing target

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

DESPITE the prospects of low revenue collection as a fallout of the Covid-19 pandemic and bleak divestment proceeds, the Centre on Wednesday said it will not breach the market borrowing target of ₹12 lakh crore for the current financial year (2020-21).

Therefore, the government will borrow only ₹4.34 lakh crore in the second half of 2020-21 as planned. In the first half, the Centre had borrowed ₹7.66 lakh crore.

Explaining the rationale for sticking to the original borrowing plan, Tarun Bajaj , secretary, Department of Economic Affairs (DEA), said the government expects revenue collection to improve going forward.

"We don't envisage the need for a higher borrowing. However, we are keeping some space for states and the private sector. We expect states to come and borrow from the market to meet their expenses. Besides we expect the private sector to also borrow in Q3 and Q4," said Bajaj.

The DEA secretary added that the government is working on revising the divestment target, but he refused to divulge any further details on the same.

The borrowing for the second half, which is 36% of the FY21 target, will be conducted in 16 weekly tranches of ₹27,000 crore that will conclude in January, saving February and March for borrowing by states.

According to experts, the finance ministry might announce another borrowing around November, when a stimulus package is expected to be announced.

GOVT SCHEMES

Small savings rates kept unchanged

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE government has decided to keep the interest rates of various small savings schemes such as the Public Provident Fund (PPF), National Savings Certificate (NCS), unchanged for the quarter ending December. Generally the interest rates on small savings schemes are reviewed every three months by the government.

This means that the PPF will continue to earn 7.10 per cent interest and the Senior Citizen Savings Scheme (SCSS) will earn 7.40 per cent as before. Similarly, post office time deposits will continue to earn between 5.5 per cent and 6.7 per cent interest depending on the tenure of deposits.

The Income Tax department on Wednesday also extended the deadline for filing income tax returns for 2018-19 by two months till November 30.

The Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT) in an order said in view difficulties due to the pandemic, the date for furnishing the belated and revised return for Assessment Year 2019-20 is being further extended.

India records highest-ever current account surplus

SESA SEN @ New Delhi

HELPED by weak economic activity and low oil prices, India recorded its highest-ever quarterly current account surplus of $19.8 billion or 3.9 per cent of GDP in the April-June quarter. During the quarter, the country imported goods worth $62.3 billion, and exported goods worth $52.3 billion, leading to a $10 billion trade deficit. Imports plunged compared to exports due to the precipitous fall in domestic demand.

Although trade deficit figures are surprising, "this is evidently good news as it has helped the overall balance to increase from about $ 14 bn in Q1-FY20 to $19.8 bn in Q1-FY21," said Madan Sabnavis, chief economist at Care Ratings. However, the boost in surplus is likely to be short-lived once the demand-supply situation normalises. It may also be noted that the higher surplus comes during the same quarter which saw the economy contract 23.9 per cent.

RBI data showed flows from the country's services sector were stable with inflows of $46.8 billion and outflows of $26.3 billion. Net outgo from the primary income account, primarily reflecting net overseas investment income payments, rose to $ 7.7 billion from $6.3 billion a year ago. Private transfer receipts, mainly representing remittances by Indians employed overseas, amounted to $18.2 billion, a decline of 8.7 per cent from their level a year ago. Put together, the current account recorded a positive balance of $19.8 billion.

After experiencing a shock in April 2020 during peak lockdown, merchandise exports and imports have displayed a varied recovery in the subsequent four months.

"We expect imports to stage a relatively faster recovery in the second half of FY21, with the economy slowly grinding to a new normal, the stabilisation in commodity prices and relatively sticky demand for gold closer to the festive and marriage season. Simultaneously, fresh restrictions that may be warranted in some major trading partners to ward off rising infections, are likely to arrest further normalisation in exports," said Aditi Nayar, principal economist, ICRA. The dominant view is that India will display a surplus of $35 billion in FY21, before swinging back to deficits in the next fiscal.

General Atlantic to invest ₹3,675 cr for 0.84% in Reliance Retail Ventures

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

Making it the third such deal announced in three weeks, Reliance Industries (RIL) on Wednesday said that private equity (PE) firm General Atlantic would invest ₹3,675 crore into Reliance Retail Ventures Ltd in exchange for a 0.84 per cent stake. Existing investor Silver Lake also announced on the day that it would invest another ₹1,875 crore in the company.

This makes General Atlantic a repeat investor in Ambani's consumer businesses, since it had invested $873 million in Jio Platforms in May for a 1.3 per cent stake. Unlike Jio Platforms, however, a strategic investor is yet to be inducted into the firm and analysts expect RIL will rope in a retail company as a strategic partner. So far, PE firms Silver Lake, KKR and General Altantic have together put in ₹18,600 crore into Reliance Retail. The fresh investment values Reliance Retail at a pre-money equity of ₹4.2 lakh crore.

"We look forward to leveraging General Atlantic's extensive expertise at the intersection of technology and consumer businesses, and two decades of experience investing in India, as we create a disruptive New Commerce platform to redefine retail," said Mukesh Ambani, CMD, RIL.

The transaction is subject to regulatory approvals. Morgan Stanley acted as financial advisor to Reliance Retail and Cyril Amarchand Mangaldas and Davis Polk & Wardwell acted as legal counsel. Shardul Amarchand Mangaldas & Co, and Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison LLP were legal counsel for GA.

We look forward to leveraging GA's extensive expertise at the intersection of technology and consumer businesses, and two decades of investing in India —Mukesh Ambani, CMD, RIL

New TCS, TDS system effective from today

BISMAH MALIK @ Bengaluru

THE Income Tax department has notified guidelines on a 1 per cent Tax Deducted at the Source (TDS) for e-commerce companies and 0.1 per cent Tax Collected at the Source (TCS) for sellers to be implemented from October 1 onwards. However, this has raised concerns among industry stakeholders.

Experts say that the government should consider releasing a fresh draft specifying the nature of service providers, e-commerce operator, service recipient and applicability to foreign firms. They also say that the move may impact the cash flows of the e-commerce companies and discourage sellers.

Under fire, the IT department clarified several doubts on Wednesday stating that sellers need to collect 0.1 per cent tax from buyers on the amount received on or from October 1, 2020 only in cases where receipt of sale consideration exceeds ₹50 lakh in a financial year. It added that in cases where TCS is higher than the tax liability of a seller, the extra amount will be refunded along with the interest.

"A few areas in the current... regime require additional clarity (such as non-residents and its interplay with tax treaties) and an FAQ type document will be helpful. It could have been better if the withholding obligations were made effective from April 1, 2021," said Ravi S Raghavan, Tax Counsel, Majmudar & Partners.

PNB declares ₹1,203 crore loan to Sintex as fraud

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

PUNJAB National Bank on Wednesday declared its exposure of ₹1,203.26 crore to Sintex Industries Ltd (SIL) as fraud. The lender added that it has already made provisions amounting to ₹215.21 crore toward the exposure, as per prescribed prudential norms.

RBI norms mandate banks to set aside up to 100 per cent as provision on a fraud-hit account. This provision can be made over a period of a few quarters.

"A fraud of ₹1,203.26 crore is being reported by the Bank to the RBI in the accounts of the Company (SIL)," the bank said in a late night notification to exchanges. The fraud was reported at the bank's large corporate branch at Ahmedabad.

In a separate notification earlier in the day, stressed textile firm Sintex Industries said it has defaulted on debt repayment to the tune of ₹49.54 crore to a total of 10 investors. Of this, ₹45.84 crore related to the principal amount, while ₹3.7 crore pertains to interest that was due. Other lenders to Sintex include Bank of Baroda, Canara Bank, Punjab and Sind Bank, and Bank of India. Its total debt stood at ₹7,358.88 crore as of June-end.

BPCL EoI bid deadline extended yet again

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Centre's attempts to divest its entire stake in state-run oil marketing company Bharat Petroleum Corporation Ltd (BPCL) this fiscal year seems to have run aground. On Wednesday, the Department of Investment and Public Asset Management (DIPAM) issued yet another deadline extension for submission of bids from interested investors-for the fourth time this year.

The authorities had received the final nod to begin privatisation as early as November last year, when the Union Cabinet gave its approval for the sale of the Centre's 52.98 per cent stake in the OMC. It was another three months, March 7, before the government invited Expressions of Interest (EoI) setting a deadline for May 2. The chaos caused by the pandemic over the summer in the oil markets, however, made conditions "unfavourable", according to government sources.

EoI bid submission only start of process

Once the EoIs come in, the government will have to set up a data centre for the interested bidders to complete due diligence. It is only post this that financial bids will be called for from eligible bidders.

The result was that the EoI submission deadline was first extended up to June 13, then July 31, and eventually September 30. DIPAM's Wednesday notice has now extended this yet another time-to November 16.

"In view of further requests received from the interested bidders (IBs) and the prevailing situation arising out of Covid-19 pandemic, the last date for submission of EoIs is further extended...," the DIPAM notice said.

The extension spells trouble for Central government incomes this fiscal year because the planned stake sale accounts for a substantial part of the ₹2.1 lakh crore divestment target for this fiscal. BPCL has a market capitalisation of around ₹76,600 crore currently.

Rijiju unveils new SAI logo

Sports Minister Kiren Rijiju on Wednesday unveiled the new Sports Authority of India (SAI) logo, which has been changed for the first time since the apex sports body's inception in 1982. The new logo highlights 'SAI' in bold letters with depiction of an athlete's flight to success in the background.

New yorker in town

Hailing from a modest background, Natarajan has overcome several odds

SRINIDHI PR @ Chennai

THANGARASU Natarajan is a simple man. His success mantra has been to stick to the basics and work hard until he gets the desired result. On Tuesday, the world got a glimpse of what the left-arm pacer is capable of when he nailed yorkers in the death overs to help Sunrisers Hyderabad defend 162 against Delhi Capitals.

The art of mastering those near-perfect yorkers did not happen overnight.

Hailing from Chinnappampatty, a small town near Salem in Tamil Nadu, the 29-year-old braved all odds to pursue his dream to play cricket. His father was a daily wage labourer while mother used to run a wayside tea stall. Eldest of five siblings, Natarajan rose to prominence in Tamil Nadu Premier League in 2016 when he executed yorkers to perfection to grab the eyeballs of the IPL scouts.

Being one-dimensional did not help him make a mark in the IPL as he ended with two wickets from six matches in 2017 when he was picked by Kings XI Punjab for a whopping ₹3 crore. The money though helped him take care of his sisters' education and start an academy back home.

Despite a mediocre stint, Hyderabad bowling coach and spin legend Muttiah Muralitharan trusted his abilities and drafted him in the Orange Army's side. Though he warmed the bench for two seasons in 2018, 2019, working with a fellow Tamilian was a learning curve for Natarajan.

Having possessed the natural angle and movement that takes the ball away from the right-handers, it was Muralitharan who made Natarajan realise the need to have more weapons in his arsenal. After 2018 IPL, the 29-year-old went back to the TN bowling coach Lakshmipathy Balaji and worked on his in-swingers apart from perfecting the yorkers.

The pacer was finally included in the XI in Hyderabad's opener against Royal Challengers Bangalore this edition. And on Tuesday, he showed what he can offer as his yorkers helped SRH. Over the years, the pacer has been hit by frequent injuries. But he has only come back stronger whenever a ball has been thrown at him. A breakthrough IPL is all he will be hoping for after spending endless hours at the nets.

Gill, Morgan take KKR for Royals ride

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

IN a game where the momentum kept changing between one team and the other early on, Kolkata Knight Riders managed to post a 37-run victory against Rajasthan Royals in Dubai on Wednesday.

Opting to bowl first, Steve Smith's bowlers gave them a good start but KKR came back to score 174/6. Jofra Archer started off conceding just one run in his first over. Usage of four different bowlers in the first six overs helped the team restrict Kolkata to 42/1 in powerplay as openers Shuman Gill and Sunil Narine were not able to capitalise.

Once the spinners were introduced into the attack, the likes of Gill and Nitish Rana managed to accelerate. There was some clean hitting on the show with boundaries being sprayed around. Gill top-scored with 47. Andre Russell walked in at four when Rana perished as Dinesh Karthik gave his bit-hitter a good chance to flex his muscles. Just when KKR looked to be having the upper hand in the game, Archer swung it back in favour of Rajasthan. He cleaned up a well-set Gill in the 12th over. After playing that over cautiously, Russell hit Gopal for some mammoth sixes.

However, Archer came back to dismiss Karthik in the 14th over. Eoin Morgan then helped Kolkata reach a total of 174 with an unbeaten 34 off 23.

Brief scores: KKR 174/6 in 20 ovs (Gill 47, Morgan 34 n.o) bt RR 137/9 in 20 ovs (T Curran 54 n.o.).

SPORTING LIFE

MATCH-UP

MI vs KXIP

7.30 PM, Star Sports 1/Hotstar

SEIZE THE MOMENT

In their two losses, Punjab were in good position but failed to grab the moments. They need to hold their nerve to get over the line. The batsmen made a mess of an easy chase against Delhi while the bowlers including Mohammed Shami were plundered for runs by Rajasthan batsmen in their last outing in Sharjah.

BUMRAH'S FORM A CONCERN

Pace spearhead Jasprit Bumrah's form is a worry for the defending champions Mumbai. He could manage only three wickets from as many matches with an unimpressive economy of 9.75 this season.

PITCH & CONDITIONS

Out of four matches, teams batting first and teams chasing targets have won two contests each. The surface here offers support to both the batsmen and bowlers. Unlike Sharjah, batsmen need to settle down before freeing their arms. Temperature will hover around 34 degrees while humidity will be between 50- 60%.

Pools to open on Oct 15

SRINIDHI PR @ Chennai

FINALLY some good news for professional swimmers in the country. More than six months since lockdown, the swimming pools for training will be permitted to operate from October 15. This was listed in the new guidelines released by the Ministry of Home Affairs on Wednesday. However, the opening of pools will depend on state governments.

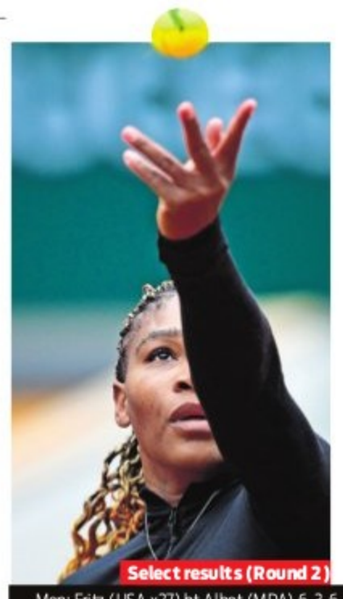
The MHA guideline stated, "Swimming pools being used for training of sportspersons will be permitted to open, for which the standard operating procedure (SOP) will be issued by Ministry of Youth Affairs & Sports (MoYA&S)."

The Swimming Federation of India (SFI) officials welcomed the news and thanked the ministries of home and sports for opening facilities for training. SFI president RN Jayaprakash said it would now allow at least the age group events to take place.

"It's a positive move and we might conduct the junior nationals at least in November end or December hopefully," he said. "We now request the state governments to allow the state players participating in nationals to be allowed to train," said executive director Virender Nanavati.

The federation is also planning to have nationals for seniors, juniors and sub-juniors after the second or third week of November if the pandemic situation gets better. The three events might even be conducted back-to-back.

"We will give the swimmers a month's time and see whether we can host the nationals after Diwali in November," said Jayaprakash.



Select results (Round 2)

Men: Fritz (USA x27) bt Albot (MDA) 6-3, 6-2, 6-4; Wawrinka (SUI x16) bt Koepfer (GER) 6-3, 6-2, 3-6, 6-1. Women: Alexandrova (RUS x27) bt Sharma (AUS) 6-3, 6-3; Schmiedlova (SVK) bt Azarenka (BLR x10) 6-2, 6-2; Pironkova (BUL) bt Williams (USA x6) walkover.

Serena pulls out

AFP @ Paris

SERENA Williams suffered another blow in her bid for a 24th Grand Slam title as the American withdrew from the French Open on Wednesday with an Achilles injury, while 12-time champion Rafael Nadal raced into the third round. US Open champion Dominic Thiem swept into the third round with a 6-1, 6-3, 7-6 (8/6) victory over American qualifier Jack Sock, saving three set points to close out the match. Victoria Azarenka 6-2, 6-2 suffered a loss to Anna Karolina Schmiedlova.

Women's T20 from November 4

VENKATA KRISHNA B @ Chennai

THE BCCI is working on the logistics of assembling Indian players for the Women's T20 Challenge to be played in Sharjah from November 4-9. Three teams will take part, with each facing the other once before the final. The BCCI has received confirmation that players from England, Sri Lanka, Bangladesh and West Indies will be available.

Although the schedule is yet to be announced, it is understood that matches will mostly take place in Sharjah. Considering the hot and humid conditions, the board is thinking of having these matches from 7.30 pm. On the dates concerned, there are no IPL matches.

The BCCI is looking to assemble the three teams in Dubai by the third week of October, after which they will undergo six-day quarantine before practice. This means the players will at best get a week to prepare. Sources in BCCI indicate the teams will reach Dubai via chartered flights and all three teams will be put up in the same hotel. A set of standard operating procedures similar to the IPL is being prepared. The players will take three Covid-19 tests, on days one, three and five after landing in Dubai before being allowed to enter the bio-secure bubble.

It is still not clear where and how the players will assemble. For IPL, some franchises arranged chartered flights to take their players to a particular city, from where they flew out for the UAE.

PERSEVERANCE ROVER TO USE X-RAYS TO SCAN FOSSILS ON MARS

NASA's Mars 2020 Perseverance rover is on its way to the Red Planet. After having to make it through the harrowing entry, descent and landing phase of the mission in February 2021, it will begin searching for traces of microscopic life from billions of years back. To accomplish this task PIXL, an X-ray spectrometer, will help the rover. PIXL gets its name from the word 'pixel', the smallest digital point of an image. Its X-ray beam can focus on rock features as small as a grain of salt. We take a look

WHAT WILL PIXL DO?

The lunchbox-size instrument is located on the end of Perseverance's 7-foot-long robotic arm

The rover's most important samples will be collected by a coring drill on the end of the arm

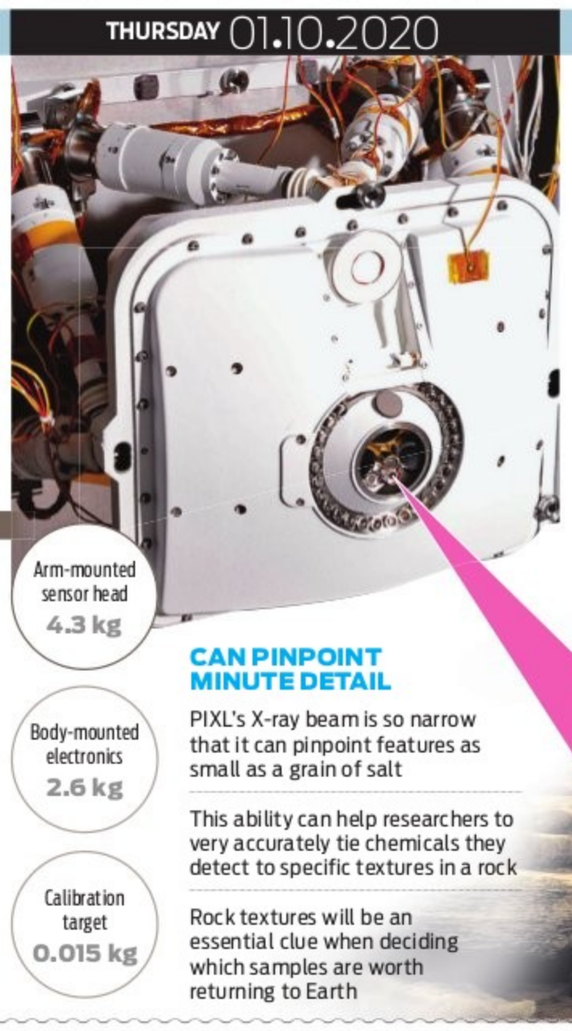
Then it will be stashed in metal tubes that the rover will deposit on the surface for return to Earth

SIMILARITY WITH OTHER MISSIONS

Nearly every mission that has successfully landed on Mars, from the Viking landers to the Curiosity rover, has included an X-ray fluorescence spectrometer of some kind

DIFFERENCE

One major way PIXL differs from its predecessors is in its ability to scan rock using a powerful, finely-focused X-ray beam to discover where – and in what quantity – chemicals are distributed across the surface



Arm-mounted sensor head
4.3 kg
Body-mounted electronics
2.6 kg
Calibration target
0.015 kg
Planetary Instrument for X-ray Lithochemistry (PIXL)
SUPERCAM
An instrument that can provide imaging, chemical composition analysis & mineralogy
SCANNING HABITABLE ENVIRONMENTS WITH RAMAN & LUMINESCENCE FOR ORGANICS AND CHEMICALS (SHERLOC)
A spectrometer that will provide fine-scale imaging and uses an ultraviolet (UV) laser to determine fine-scale mineralogy and detect organic compounds
MASTCAM-Z
An advanced camera system with panoramic and stereoscopic imaging capability with the ability to zoom
MARS ENVIRONMENTAL DYNAMICS ANALYZER (MEDA)
A set of sensors that will provide measurements of temperature, wind speed and direction, pressure, relative humidity and dust size and shape
MARS OXYGEN ISRU EXPERIMENT (MOXIE)
An exploration technology investigation that will produce oxygen from Martian atmospheric carbon dioxide
RADAR IMAGER FOR MARS' SUBSURFACE EXPERIMENT (RIMFAX)
A ground-penetrating radar that will provide centimetre-scale esolution of the geologic structure of the subsurface

10 SECOND

PIXL measures X-rays in 10-second bursts from a single point on a rock before the instrument tilts 100 microns and takes another measurement

CAN PINPOINT MINUTE DETAIL

PIXL's X-ray beam is so narrow that it can pinpoint features as small as a grain of salt

This ability can help researchers to very accurately tie chemicals they detect to specific textures in a rock

Rock textures will be an essential clue when deciding which samples are worth returning to Earth

LAUNCH DATE
30 JULY

LANDING
FEB 18 2021

MISSION DURATION
1 MARS YEAR (ABOUT 687 EARTH DAYS)

AI-POWERED

To help find the best targets, PIXL relies on more than a precision X-ray beam alone

It also needs a hexapod – a device featuring six mechanical legs connecting PIXL to the robotic arm and guided by AI to get the most accurate aim

After the rover's arm is placed close to a rock, PIXL uses a camera and laser to calculate its distance Then those legs make tiny movements – on the order of just 100 microns – so the device can scan the target

FACT OF THE MATTER

UK's swearing grey parrots

INFAMOUS FIVE

A British zoo has had to separate five foul-mouthed parrots who keepers say were encouraging each other to swear. Billy, Eric, Tyson, Jade and Elsie joined Lincolnshire Wildlife Centre's colony of 200 grey parrots in August, and soon revealed a penchant for blue language.

"We are quite used to parrots swearing, but we've never had five at the same time," said the zoo's chief executive, Steve Nichols. "Most parrots clam up outside, but for some reason these five relish it."Nichols said no visitors had complained about the parrots, and most found the situation funny. "When a parrot tells you to 'f— off' it amuses people very highly," he said Tuesday. "It's brought a big smile to a really hard year." Nichols said the parrots have been separated to save children's ears. They were moved to different areas of the park so they don't "set each other off," he said.

Ford recalls 7 lakh cars

CAMERA ISSUES

Ford is recalling more than 7,00,000 vehicles in North America because the backup cameras can show distorted images or suddenly go dark. The recall covers most 2020 versions of Ford's F-Series trucks, as well as the 2020 Explorer, Mustang, Transit, Expedition, Escape, Ranger and Edge. Also included are the Lincoln Nautilus and Corsair. F-Series trucks are the top-selling vehicle in the US. The company says in documents posted on Wednesday by the US government's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration that a poor electrical connection is causing the problem. Ford says it doesn't know of any crashes or injuries caused by the problem. Dealers will replace the rearview camera at no cost to owners.

TikTok's US poll guide

BATTLING FAKE NEWS

TikTok on Tuesday launched a US election guide as part of an effort to battle misinformation on the wildly popular video-sharing app that the White House has targeted for a ban. Facebook, Twitter, YouTube and other internet platforms have all ramped up efforts to provide users reliable news and avoid being used to mislead voters during a contentious US election. TikTok's in-app guide provides links to voter registration pages and access to election information from sources such as the National Association of Secretaries of State and BallotReady, according to head of US public policy Michael Beckerman. The election guide makes its debut as the video-sharing platform battles to stop a ban ordered by US President Donald Trump.

31.5% of the universe is made up of matter

Remaining 68.5% is dark energy, a mysterious force behind the expansion of the cosmos to accelerate, finds study

COSMIC MEASUREMENT

WASHINGTON: A team of US astrophysicists has produced one of the most precise measurements ever made of the total amount of matter in the Universe, a longtime mystery of the cosmos.

The answer, published in The Astrophysical Journal on Monday, is that matter accounts for 31.5 per cent — give or take 1.3 per cent — of the total amount of matter and energy that make up the Universe. The remaining 68.5 per cent is dark energy, a mysterious force that is causing the expansion of the Universe to accelerate over time, and was first inferred by observations of distant supernovae in the late 1990s.

Put another way, this means the total amount of matter in the observable Universe is equivalent to 66 billion trillion times the mass of our Sun, Mohamed Abdullah, a University of California, Riverside astrophysicist and the paper's lead author, told AFP.

Most of this matter — 80 percent — is called dark matter. Its nature is not yet known, but it may consist of some as-yet-undiscovered subatomic particle.The latest measurements correspond well with values previously found by other teams using different cosmological techniques, such as measuring temperature fluctuations in the low-energy radiation left over from the Big Bang.

"This has been a long process over the course of 100 years where we're gradually getting more and more precise," Gillian Wilson, the study's co-author and a professor at UCR told AFP.

"It's just kind of cool to be able to make such a fundamental measurement about the Universe without leaving planet Earth," she added.

So how exactly do you weigh the Universe?

The team honed a 90-year-old technique that involves observing how galaxies orbit inside galaxy clusters — massive systems that contain thousands of galaxies. These observations told them how strong each galaxy cluster's gravitational pull was, from which its total mass could then be calculated.

In fact, explained Wilson, their technique was originally developed by the pioneering astronomer Fritz Zwicky, who was the first person to suspect the existence of dark matter in galaxy clusters, in the 1930s.

He noticed that the combined gravitational mass of the galaxies he observed in the nearby Coma galaxy cluster was insufficient to prevent those galaxies from flying away from one another, and realised there must be some other invisible matter at play.

Scientists claim to achieve quantum supremacy

SUPER-FAST

HELSINKI: Scientists have created a device which could make it easier to harness super-fast quantum computers for real-world applications, a team at Finland's Aalto University said on Wednesday.

Quantum computers are a new generation of machines powered by energy transfers between so-called "artificial atoms" — electrical circuits a fraction of a millimetre across. Scientists believe the devices will eventually be able to vastly outperform even the world's most powerful conventional supercomputers. Last October, Google announced it had reached "quantum supremacy" by creating a machine which executed a calculation in 200 seconds that would have taken a classic computer 10,000 years to complete.

Although a remarkable leap in the field, Google's Sycamore computer was held back by errors in its processing, caused in part by shortcomings in how the device measured the energy being stored in its memory.

Being able to accurately gauge the energy levels of the artificial atoms, known as "qubits", is central to a quantum computer's functioning, but until now this has required large amounts of circuitry, consumed huge amounts of power and been prone to errors from "quantum noise".

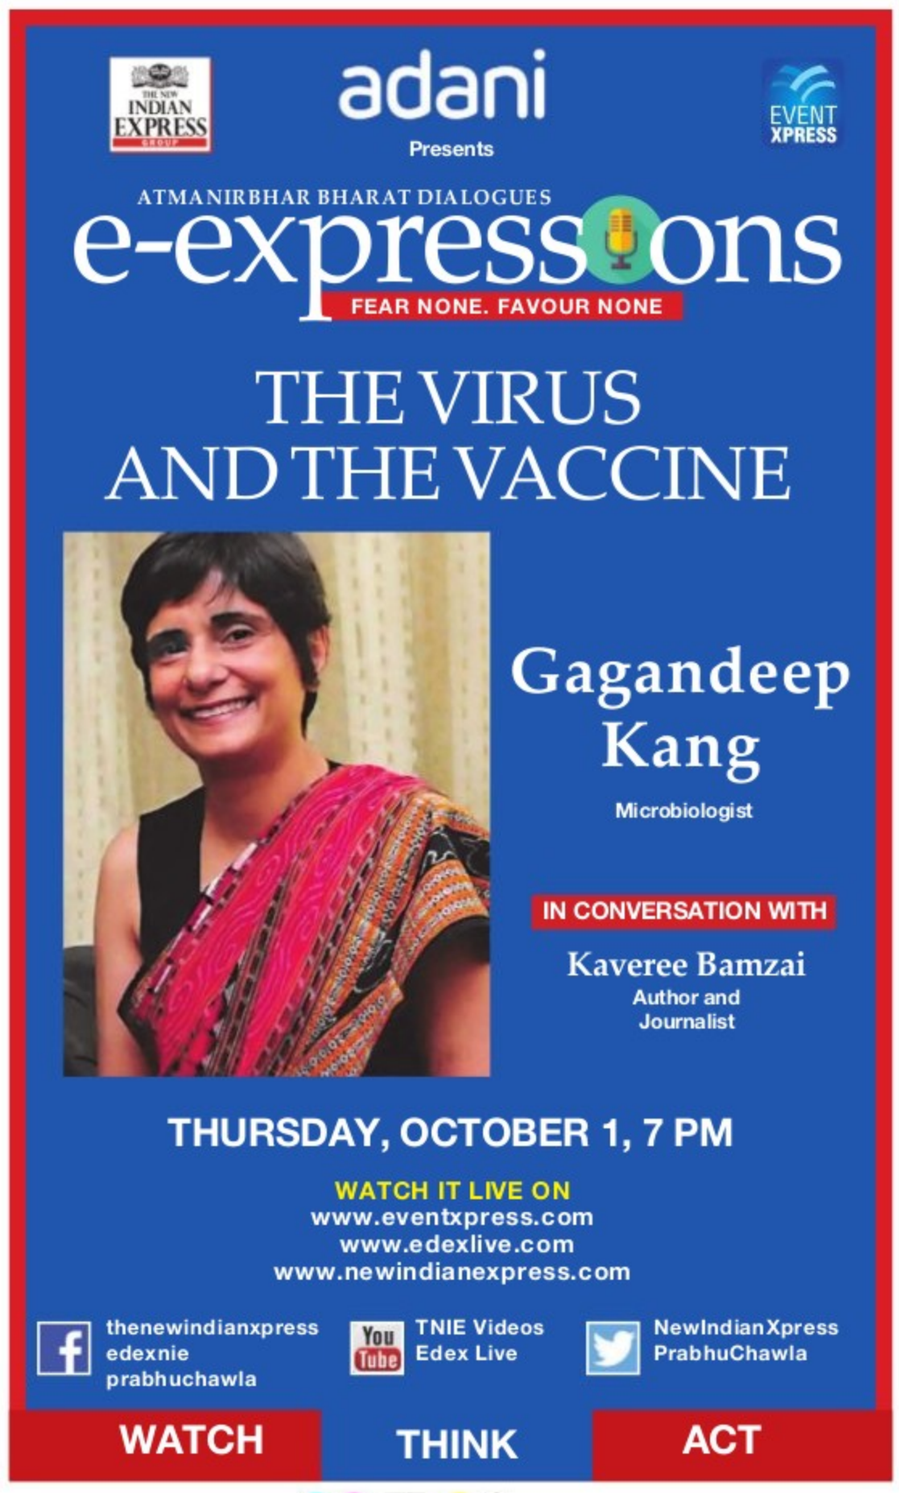
The Finnish team, whose findings will be published in the journal Nature, discovered that a device called a bolometer, containing graphene, can measure the qubits' energy state while consuming a million times less energy.

Regular computers, even the fastest, function in binary fashion: they carry out tasks using tiny fragments of data known as bits that only ever match the values 1 or 0, with calculations performed one after another.

This means that even the most advanced supercomputers struggle with tasks such as predicting large-scale traffic flows, where each car can move in an entirely random way all at once. However the equivalent tiniest data units on a quantum computer, the qubits, can be both 1 and 0 at the same time, meaning the device can crunch an enormous number of potential outcomes simultaneously.

AIR LEAK DETECTED ON ISS

3rd time in a month: CAPE CANAVERAL: A small air leak at the International Space Station finally has been traced to the Russian side, following a middle-of-the-night search by astronauts. NASA on Tuesday said that the two Russians and one American on board were awakened on Monday to hurriedly seal hatches between compartments and search for the ongoing leak, which appeared to be getting worse. It was the third time in over a month that the crew had to isolate themselves on the Russian side, in an attempt to find the growing leak. It turns out instead of the leak getting bigger this time, a temporary temperature change caused the erroneous cabin air pressure reading, according to NASA. The leak was first spotted a year ago. NASA officials stress that the leak poses no danger.



BIG FIGHT

World's first person to be cured of HIV, dies of cancer

THE BERLIN PATIENT

WASHINGTON: Timothy Ray Brown, who made history as "the Berlin patient," the first person known to be cured of HIV infection, has died. Brown was 54.

He died on Tuesday at his home in Palm Springs, California, according to a social media post by his partner, Tim Hoeffgen. The cause was a return of the cancer that originally prompted the unusual bone marrow and stem cell transplants Brown received in 2007 and 2008, which for years seemed to have eliminated both his leukemia and HIV, the virus that causes AIDS.

"Timothy symbolised that it is possible, under special circumstances," to rid a patient of HIV —something that many scientists had doubted could be done, said Dr. Gero Huetter, the Berlin physician who led Brown's historic treatment.

"It's a very sad situation" that cancer returned and took his life, because he still seemed free of HIV, said Huetter, who is now medical director of a stem cell company in Dresden, Germany.

The International AIDS Society, which had Brown speak at an AIDS conference after his successful treatment, issued a statement mourning his death and said he and Huetter are owed "a great deal of gratitude" for promoting research on a cure. Brown was working in Berlin as a translator when he was diagnosed with HIV and then later, leukemia.

Transplants are known to be an effective treatment for the blood cancer, but Huetter wanted to try to cure the HIV infection as well by using a donor with a rare gene mutation that gives natural resistance to the AIDS virus.

Brown's first transplant in 2007 was only partly successful: His HIV seemed to be gone but his leukemia was not. He had a second transplant from the same donor in 2008 and that one seemed to work. But his cancer returned last year, Brown said in a recent interview with the Associated Press.

"I'm still glad that I had it," he said of his transplant.

"It opened up doors that weren't there before" and inspired scientists to work harder to find a cure, Brown said.

A second man, Adam Castillejo — called "the London patient" until he revealed his identity earlier this year — also is believed to have been cured by a transplant similar to Brown's in 2016.

But donors like these are scarce and the procedure is too risky to be widely used.

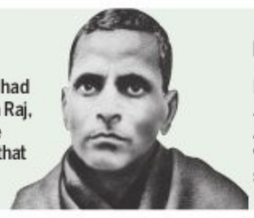
While demand for a Telugu state had been persistent since the British Raj, it was the fast-unto-death of one Potti Sriramulu, and his demise that became the tipping point



DREAM IN THE MAKING

It was days after his death that Jawaharlal Nehru announced that Andhra State would be formed with the 11 undisputed Telugu states and three taluks of Bellary

MERGER & SEPARATION

It was three years later that Andhra State and Telangana merged to form Andhra Pradesh. The state was then divided back in two in 2014

'CELEBRITIES ARE LEARNING A MUCH-NEEDED LESSON'

...says filmmaker Indrajit Lankesh, who triggered the drug expose in the film industry

There's more that seems to be upsetting the filmmaker these days. "Prakash Padukone, who comes from a small village in Udupi, has never forgotten his roots. I still remember how proud Kannadigas felt when he won his world championship," says Lankesh, who refers to Padukone senior as a culturally-inclined, deep rooted, and disciplined person. He adds, "But his daughter, Deepika Padukone, was probably influenced by the atmosphere of Bollywood or its members. She began her career in a Kannada film, Aishwarya, which she refuses to even mention. She should feel proud to be a Kannadiga like her father."

frankly speaking

Even as crackdown on the drug racket rages on in the film industry, filmmaker Indrajit Lankesh, who prompted this outburst is only too pleased at the turn of events. "When I first got to know of the drug racket in the Kananda film industry, it hurt me. So, I decided to speak up," says filmmaker Indrajit Lankesh, who continues, "Some actors have come into sets drunk and doped. But neither the Karnataka Film Chamber, nor any other board came forward to address the issue or take any action. So, I thought I will bell the cat." Satisfied with the message sent across, he explains that there are youngsters who consider actors as their role models and were falling into the trap of believing such acts are "cool" or a part of the industry. "Our seniors have struggled for the survival of Kannada cinema and the language. But the third generation of actors who have come in, some from outside, don't even know the history or the importance of the language," he rues, adding that they come for the glam quotient and the money. "They are giving a bad name to the industry."

When asked about why only women were being called in for investigations related to the issue, Lankesh firmly says he has named many male and female actors. That's not all, the filmmaker believes it's not just actors involved in the case but politicians' kids, event managers and model coordinators as well. "I have named actors as well. But if the police have not found any evidence against them, they must be smarter than the police." But has his whistleblowing act caused him to be the subject of any alienation in the industry? "I have always been the black sheep of the industry," says the journalist-director. He recalls a lesson taught to him by his father - "As a media professional, you can have friends but not close friends. Otherwise, your commitment will be compromised. But I am still surrounded by a few good people in the film industry."

Having followed the case diligently since day one, he feels the developments coming out of it are all "good signs." "Better late than never," he says, adding, "The mafia is getting exposed, and celebrities, who thought that nothing would happen to them, are learning a much-needed lesson."

STYLE AND THE CITY
Sarayu Hegde

Fashion, as we know it, is one of the most influential industries in the world. And when brands not only make top quality products but also come full circle and give back to the community through their choices, they become good influencers of fashion.

Kulsum Shadab Wahab, based in Bengaluru, is a philanthropist recognised by Chime for Change, a global campaign founded by Gucci, which features 25 women activists from around the world working to advance gender equality. A true fashion enthusiast, she believes in altering the perception of high fashion through inclusivity. Ara Lumiere, an initiative by her Hothur Foundation, works with acid attack survivors in making avant-garde head gears. Worn by the likes of pop star Katy Perry, Ara Lumiere's head gears have won many international awards. They have also collaborated with Shah Rukh Khan's Meer Foundation to create awareness on skin banking. The spring summer '21 edition of Ara Lumiere, in collaboration with ace designer Dhruv Kapoor (Ara Lumiere X Dhruv Kapoor), which was made out of diligence, love and hope by the survivors, was recently unveiled at the first-ever digital Milan Fashion Week. Showcased through a short film, the gender neutral collection features embroidered bucket hats in sheer organzas and taffetas, handcrafted and hand embroidered by the brave acid attack survivors. All proceeds have gone into the rehabilitation of the survivors, where fashion has acted as a powerful tool in empowering these women.

The government's leather ban in 2015 destroyed jobs for leather work artisans, mainly from marginalised communities. A fight for justice against caste and ostracised communities got artist-activist Sudheer Rajbhar to develop a new recycled material – one that is made from waste but close to leather in its texture and durability – to celebrate and conserve crafts from a banned industry. This is how Mumbai-based Chamar Studio was conceived. Says Rajbhar, "Chamar was once used as a slur and we have tried to end that. Our brand's promoters in Germany, the USA and France tell us the name sounds like a mix of 'Chanel' and 'Shalimar' and associate it with luxury." These bags, which come in striking bold colours, are high on functionality, design and skilled craftsmanship and proudly stand at par with any global luxury brand. These timeless pieces are waterproof, cruelty free and vegan as well.

Brands with a cause make us believe that fashion can be something bigger, more than just a style statement. Along with creating high quality products that are recognised globally, fashion also puts out good into the world. Whether it is supporting a cause or sourcing sustainable material, these brands are definitely the game changers of fashion today.

Beating the blues

Sreeleela seems to have found a fix for dealing with frustration. The actor put up Insta stories, where she is making chapattis to get rid of frustration. The videos show her kneading the dough into a ball, where she even smiles as she slam dunks the dough into a bowl. Yikes! We wonder what made her turn towards this form of catharsis.

SCRIPTING A NEW PATH

While the world of theatre seems to be moving swiftly towards the digital medium, theatre veterans are still struggling to get a hang of the new normal. The result has been loss of income. Sanchaya Theatre Production, which has been producing plays for three decades, is starting an initiative called Sanchaya Cares to support elderly theatre artistes with a minimum stipend. For this campaign, they are recording some of their iconic plays, which will then be ticketed and streamed from Oct. 2.

Krishna Hebbale, convenor of Sanchaya Cares, says it's an effort to support industry veterans. "This is our turn to the help those have given their lives to nourish this art form. The artistes we are trying to help are elderly. It's difficult and unfair to expect them to learn technology," says Hebbale, adding that through this project, their aim is to give ₹3,000 to 30 artistes for the next three months.

Stills from a play that will be streamed online as part of Sanchaya Cares

This effort has been supported by Sandalwood actor and director Pawan Kumar, through his Filmmakers United Club website, where all the plays are going to be streamed. "I have already worked with artistes from Sanchaya Theatre before. This effort aims to create a stipend for elderly artistes who have lost their jobs during the pandemic," says Kumar, who created Filmmakers United Club during the pandemic to bring together like-minded filmmakers and audiences.

The theatre group is coming up with five plays on its launch day, including Shradha Matu Stainless Steel Paatregalu; Neeru Kudisida Neereyaru, which is a Kannada version of William Shakespeare's Merry Wives of Windsor; and a Kannada interpretation of Tempest. The tickets are priced at ₹400 per show if bought before Oct. 2. Beyond that, the shows will have a standard price of ₹500. The prices will differ for people logging in from different countries. "Since it is for a cause, we are also looking for donations too. There is an option for people to increase the ticket prices too," says Hebbale. The plays are going to be on the website for three months minimum till they refresh it with new plays. "Even if the plays are going to be on the site for a few months, it's the first 2-3 weeks that matter the most. That's why we are trying every possible way to spread the word," says Hebbale.

The plays will stream on the official website of Filmmakers United Club, Oct. 2 onwards.

TRANQUIL TUNES

A melody of peace

• Monika Monalisa

They say the toughest battles are the ones that cannot be seen. Which is why many might relate to city-based Iram's new single, called Karaar. The art-rock band uses the song to speak about rediscovering oneself and making peace with that. The band comprises singer-songwriter Neil Simon Abel in the lead, drummer Shawn Jacob, guitarist-keyboardist Aadarsh Subramanian and bassist Shashank Dutt. "Everyone of us has surely come to point where we think ill of ourselves or have not been comfortable with ourselves. The song is about accepting who we are and the contentment that comes along with it," says Abel, who explains that 'Karaar' means peace and tranquillity.

Though written a year ago, the song took a while to be produced. "We finished a part of the production before March. But as the lockdown started, we had no access to studios and had to wait till the curfew was relaxed a bit," says Abel, who has written and made the primary composition of the song. Interestingly, the song also incorporates lyrics in Urdu lyrics. "Although I am from Bengaluru, I was raised in Muscat, where I had many Pakistani friends. Growing up, I was exposed to many Urdu songs, which had a deep impact on me. I am most comfortable writing or singing in Urdu. I would find it difficult to get the dialect right in other language," says the 30-year-old vocalist.

> Our song, Karaar, is about accepting who we are and the contentment that comes along with it
> —Neil Simon Abel, musician

The aim, he adds, was to not have an "over-produced" track. "We have tried to do pretty much what we have done with the songs earlier. While the basic composition was done by me, we did the touch up with the other band members' inputs," says Abel.

The band, which was formed in 2016, has come a long way since their debut Azal. With the exit of co-founder and guitarist-keyboardist Gaurav Govilkar, it took them sometime to become regulars in the city's live circuit again. Now the group is doing intimate gigs and after the lockdown, they too are trying to make the most out of digital concerts.

BRIGHT SPOT

A GRATEFUL GOODBYE

When a person retires after many years of service, they traditionally receive a card full of farewell wishes from their colleagues, and often a thoughtful gift – a framed photo or a large bouquet of flowers, perhaps. That tradition has been turned on its head at a UK company: The boss is retiring, and he's gifting £10 million ($12.7 million) to his employees as a goodbye. David Stevens is the chief executive of Admiral, a Wales-based motor insurance company that's been listed on the London Stock Exchange since 2004. He co-founded the business with his wife Heather in 1991. They have 7,500 staff in the south of Wales, and 3,000 overseas in the US, Spain, Italy, France, India, and Canada. Full-time workers will get £1,000 ($1,270), and part-time staff will receive £500 ($635).

FIT BIT

DWIKONASANA
(STANDING YOGA SEAL POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'dwi' means 'dual', 'kona' means 'angle', and 'asana' means 'pose'. The hands are brought together behind the back and are lifted as the body moves forward, providing a strong stretch for the front of the chest and helping to open the shoulders. The forward fold stretches the hamstrings and the muscles of the back of the body, helping to release tension. This posture is an inversion, as the head is lowered to a level below the heart. It may be modified based on lower body restrictions by stepping the feet further apart or by bending the knees.

STEPS

- Start with the mountain. Keep your feet 3-4 feet apart.
- Inhale and take your arms behind and intertwine your fingers. Bring your shoulder blades towards each other and slowly lift the chest, looking up towards the ceiling.
- Exhale, hinge at your hips while coming forward with the chest. Take your arms up. Keep your head relaxed while it hangs from the neck.
- Keep your arms and legs straight. If you feel excess weight on your heel, try to slide your weight slightly forward.
- Take a deep breath and hold for a few seconds. Take 4-8 breaths according to your capability.
- To release the pose, keep the shoulder blades squeezed together. Inhale and raise your back upwards slowly.
- Take a deep breath. Exhale and release the arms.

BENEFITS

- Stretches the shoulders and improves the flexibility of the shoulder joints. strengthens the upper arms.
- Improves the flexibility of the wrist and finger joints.
- Tones up the joints of the hips and spine. Hence, it is good for back pain and sciatica.
- Stretches the muscles of the upper chest and improves the functions of the respiratory system.
- Regular practise is good for any bronchial issue.
- Helps to burn the belly fat and aids in weight management.
- A study demonstrates that yoga postures (that includes this asana) help to improve rheumatoid arthritis disease parameters.
- It is believed to increase breast size.
- Improves mental functions and also helps to strengthen them.

LIMITATIONS

- Those who have had a recent or chronic injury in the legs, back, neck or shoulders should not attempt this.
- If you have unmedicated high or low blood pressure, avoid the pose.

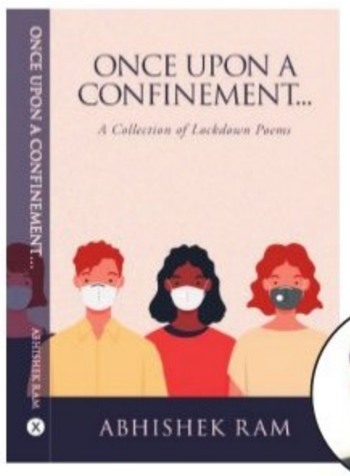
PENNING THE PAIN

Express features

The Covid-induced lockdown has been brutal for many, says new author on the block Abhishek Ram, adding that it's a scar that will stay with people forever. Channelising the difficulties people had to face during the lockdown, Ram has come out with a book – Once Upon a Confinement – a compilation of 50 poems narrating multiple incidents take took place during lockdown. The incidents of migrant labour walking miles to go back to their hometown was plain heartbreaking, says Ram.

The author, also a bio-technology professional, says he wanted to make those moment immortal through his poetry. "Pandemic has changed all our lives. It will be difficult for people to return to normalcy," he adds.

While most of the poems are based on the plight that migrant workers went through, there is another incident that pushed him to write about them. "There was an incident where a Chennai-based doctor, a frontline worker, lost his life to Covid-19. Due to lack of knowledge of people around him, he didn't get a proper burial at the cemetery. It was really sad to see the treatment that a frontline worker was getting," exclaims Ram. He also emphasises on his research saying he got the information through media, especially print and digital. "We hardly had any access to the outside world, the media was our only window," says Ram.



While many would wish for happier story to remember, why did the poet choose this as his muse? "Though the stories don't bring out the happiest feeling, this is the reality. There is nothing bad or good about it," says Ram, adding that his "honest intention" was never to hurt anyone's sentiment.

Inspired by American poet Robert Frost's 1916 poem The Road Not Taken, poetry has been a passion for Ram since he was 14, and he has been writing poems since. While many of his English poems were not published, some as old as 18 years, he is finally out with his debut book.

(Clockwise) A stamp that travelled with Gandhiji from Bombay to Marseilles on the SS Rajputana; a set of four Gandhi stamps

Gandhi: The most stamped person

Collecting stamps (philately) was the most popular hobby during my childhood. It's almost a dying hobby now, at least among the youth. The influx of digitisation has resulted in the death of letter writing and with it the idea of collecting stamps as a hobby. Though stamps are still being printed and record prices are being set at auctions, it has gradually become a hobby of the older generation.

While parting with my stamp collection, the only stamps I retained were a pre-Independence stamp with the inscription Azad Hind and a set of four Gandhi stamps in mint and unhinged (that is, with full original gum) condition. The Azad Hind stamp was created by the German artist Werner von Axster-Heudtlass for Subhas Chandra Bose's Azad Hind (Indian National Army) and printed in Germany by the Reich printing office.

The four Gandhi stamps are a reminder for me of the most stamped person in the universe!

A set of 1948 stamps picturing Gandhi was sold for a record $598,000. The unique strip of four 10-rupee stamps is considered the most important and desirable item of post-Indian Independence philately. The purple-brown stamps are emblazoned with the word "service" and were issued to the governor-general's secretariat for official use.

Gandhi stamps remain the most sought-after stamps around the world. One of the most passionate Gandhi stamp collectors, Revati Natesan, is based in Marin County, California. Her journey began when she started researching the phrase 'Gandhi is the most stamped person in the Universe'. She soon found out that by adorning the edges of envelopes, stamps from over 150 countries were quietly paying homage to Mahatma Gandhi by conveying various facets of his life: early struggles, brilliant political strategies, and relentless pursuit of different ways to relate to the masses. Revati has used her understanding of Gandhi and his message to start her own non-profit called ThinkGlobal Arts Foundation, with a mission to spread peace around the world. One of the rare stamps in her collection is the one that travelled with Gandhiji from Bombay to Marseilles on the SS Rajputana. The post used to be transported on mail boats called Paquebot. Revati has a stamp that co-travelled with Gandhiji on the boat!

VR FEROSE

Another interesting stamp was issued by Namibia when it got its independence from South Africa. The postal cover has the picture of a woman conveying her thanks to Gandhiji (Namibia followed Gandhiji's principle of non-violence to gain its independence).

Another stamp was released when the movie Gandhi was released. The entire message about Gandhiji is contained on the tiny 1-inch by 1-inch piece of paper!

Natesan's research led her on an awe-inspiring journey into the world of the Mahatma, and ultimately the creation of an exhibit entitled 'Gandhi, the most stamped person in the Universe, a philatelic exhibit'. The exhibit records the major events in his life and the values he lived by – from his birth in 1869, through his school years, his career as a lawyer in South Africa, the nationalist movements in India, his assassination in 1948, and ultimately the glorious legacy of peace and non-violence that he left behind. The exhibit has travelled to several cities across the United States.

When asked what her most precious Gandhi stamp was, Natesan said, "It is not the stamp but his message, his life. Here was an ordinary man, in many ways no different from any of us, who through sheer honesty and tenacity was able to grow and go beyond to inspire others around the world to higher levels of being."

Signal to keep you on track

A still from the game

If games on trains are a no-brainer for you, you might have come across a few of these: Rail Nation, Railroad Tycoon, and Mini Metro. However – another game recently made everyone stop in their tracks because it was free to download on the Epic games store (for the PC). "Railway Empire" calls itself a Rail Tycoon simulation game. When you start playing it, you might start thinking that everything, but the 'game' part of the phrase is accurate. If you missed the train on the free-version, here are some reasons for you to consider a buy on the full-version online.

A trip to the 1800s

Steam-powered locomotives, the opportunity to research and develop new alternatives, and even set-up shop in historic cities! A New York city resembling an overgrown forest? Wait till your tracks raze them all down, and your industries keep the pollution levels right up! The game even has expansion packs into other continents - covering Europe, South America and Australia.

Visuals and music-tracks

The game has multiple pleasant background tracks that will keep you calm even as an enemy tycoon captures territory you dearly want. The visuals make the operations intuitive (to an extent, signal placement is still a daunting task). Placing tracks and establishing stations feel exactly right, with those lime green highlights directing you to empty areas. The ka-chings on purchase of new equipment is an under-rated pleasure. The game also allows for some cool camera views, so you can look outside your train window when it stops outside a cornfield or crosses a bridge. While the game seems straightforward to start with, it gets difficult just as fast. It requires patience, and proper rail management to ensure regular cash flow to expand the railway business.

A lot more choo do

While appreciating the logistic difficulties in setting up a railway network, the game provides the opportunity to develop new technologies, trade and industrialize. As the city gets better connected, the population increases – providing the opportunity to capitalize on passenger, as well as freight traffic. But we would also do well to note that unless you have unlimited money supply (like in the sandbox mode), the game would require a lot of waiting around and railroad rearrangement. If you're looking for a diversion, place your signals on Railway Empire. It isn't a bad choo-choice.

SUNIEL SHETTY TO PLAY POLICE OFFICER SHANKAR BIDARI IN VEERAPPAN WEB SERIES: AMR RAMESH

Suniel Shetty

The Bollywood actor, who made his Kannada debut with Pailwaan, will be a part of the 10-episode series, and will be joining the sets this month

● A Sharadhaa

Director AMR Ramesh is coming up with a multi-lingual web series on forest brigand Veerappan, for which shooting is currently going on at brisk pace. With Kishore reprising the role of Veerappan, the team will complete 36 days of shooting, and now have on board, B-Town hero, Suniel Shetty.

In an earlier interview, the Attahasa director had mentioned that he is in talks with the Pailwaan actor, which now stands confirmed. "Suniel Shetty will be playing the role of a police officer, Shankar Bidari for the series. He will be joining the sets this month for a 25-30 day schedule," says Ramesh, who is glad to have him as part of the project.

The director also mentions that he plans to bring in actor Vivek Oberoi, and is currently in talks with the actor's father, Suresh Oberoi. Along with Kishore, the actors who worked in Ramesh's film Attahasa are also a part of the web series. They include Ravi Kale, Sampath, Raai Laxmi, Viayalakshmi, and Suchendra Prasad. The 10-episode-web series, made under AMR Pictures, will have music by Vijai Shankar with two DOPS — Vijay Milton and Vaidy S — handling the cinematography.

Pavana Gowda to collaborate with Rudri team for second time

Actor will play a strong protagonist character in a female-centric film

● CE Features

Pavana Gowda who has had a long break courtesy the lockdown, is now eagerly looking forward to resuming work. The actor, who has been in discussion with directors for a couple of projects, is excited to be joining hands with the Rudri team again. The film, directed by Badiger Devendra, has attracted many awards at international platforms even before its release. This is another reason that the actor is keen to associated with the director for yet another interesing story. "Rudri is one of the best subjects that I have been a part of, and I am sure the audience will agree when it is out. The makers are currently in talks about releasing it on a streaming platform. Meanwhile, the director came up with an equally good subject, and I just jumped at the offer. Like Rudri, I get to play another strong protagonist character in a female-centric film, which will focus on neglected women. A lot of research has gone into the story during the lockdown period — almost four to five months — and an official announcement will be made by the team with a poster release. That is when they will reveal more details of the film, and specifically about my role," says Pavana.

Apart from Rudri, Pavana is also looking forward to The Mysore Diaries, Toothu Madike, Kali Veera, which are ready for release. She awaits the shooting of a pending song in Mehabooba. The actor will also be seen in Vinod Prabahakar's Fighter, which is another film to roll soon.

Barry Jenkins directs The Lion King follow-up

● CE Features

Oscar award-winning director Barry Jenkins, who is known for helming Moonlight, will be directing The Lion King 2.

The 1994 animated musical drama was lauded for its making and emotional content. A live-action remake of the film was made last year by Disney and also turned out to be a hit. The new follow-up is expected to touch upon the origin story of Mufasa, while touching upon the lives of other major characters.

Barry Jenkins also directed the 2018 film adaptation of James Baldwin's If Beale Street Could Talk. Jeff Nathanson who penned the script of the 2019 blockbuster remake is working on writing the sequel. Barry Jenkins' latest project was his adaptation of Colson Whitehead's Pulitzer-winning fiction, The Underground Railroad.

Barry Jenkins has also been roped in to direct, the biopic of dancer Alvin Ailey. The news was confirmed by Barry Jenkins in his official Twitter handle.

THE GOOD PLACE SEASON 4
Creator: Michael Schur

Cast: Kristen Bell, William Jackson Harper, Jameela Jamil, D'Arcy Carden, Manny Jacinto, Ted Danson
RATING 3.5/5

Insightful, entertaining, and fun, for the most part

● Ashameera Aiyappan

On Episode 1 of The Good Place, I wondered how the creators managed to stretch a seemingly flimsy premise to three full seasons. But with each passing episode, the series consistently metamorphosed into something bigger, grander and yet, increasingly rooted in its humane values. The best thing about The Good Place is that it is relatable and has normal, flawed people at the centre, just trying to be better. The new season is no different. Humanity is at stake, and it is up to four normal human beings, one demon and a 'not-a-girl' Janet to save it.

Second chances have always been the cornerstone of The Good Place. This show brims with "this insane hope that people are worth the trouble," as a character observes. And the final season is our motley of humans and demons proving it to the supernatural world. As always, there is a healthy dose of ethics and philosophy. Kant, Aristotle, and many other philosophers make their regular appearances. If the previous seasons were about Eleanor (Kirsten Bell), Chidi (William Jackson Harper), Tahani (Jameela Jamil), and Jason (Manny Jacinto), this season is them trying to recreate the effects with three new subjects, who come in with their set of flaws.

Despite all the philosophical goodness, what makes The Good Place a fun watch is its satirical tone. The series takes a dig at almost everything, from its own characters to things in the real world. For example, the all-knowing Judge for the universe is addicted to pop-culture. (Now, isn't that something we can relate to?) There's a jab about Instagram being an 'inspirational lie', and a 'social media CEO' being one of the stages of becoming a demon. (There is even an unintentional Tamil reference: one of the episodes is named Chillaxing!) It is the intelligent, sharp writing aided by exuberant performances that makes this season entertaining.

In a way, the series is reflective of how 'final' things in the human-land feel right now, especially with the Internet and the concept of 'calling out'. (At one point, Earth is cancelled.) With every moment of our lives being documented online, where is the space to evolve? No wonder, there is a performative wokeness section in The Bad Place. And I love how the series never judges its characters for their human flaws. It calls out Tahani for vanity, but doesn't criminalise her. Jason might be simple, but he expresses the most profound thoughts. Even Brent, a privileged sexist jerk, is not written off as beyond redemption. But his problematic behaviour is reprimanded. Demons find redemption, and everyone learns off each other — even the all-knowing Janet.

The show touches on several existential themes, and as always, transforms unrecognisably over the 13 episodes. But to see all the redemption, evolution and humanity is heartening. The season might dip in energy during the middle, but that bittersweet finale more than makes up for it.

Through all the shirts and forks, the series reminds us that The Good Place is time with people you love; there is joy in being humane, trying to be the best version of ourselves. It also reminds us that 'mortality offers meaning to events of our lives, morality helps us navigate that meaning'. I guess all good things have to end, but I am glad it was memorable.

A poignant riff on ambitions and dreams

● Shilajit Mitra

Serious Men ends a small if persistent tradition in Hindi film. Attempting to enlist a child prodigy for an advertising campaign, a politician makes the invariable comparison to Sachin Tendulkar. "Sachin represents excellence," she explains. "Just like your boy Adi." The point is well taken, though Ayyan, the boy's father, looks unimpressed. He stares on and never cracks a smile. Sachin, for him, just won't cut it.

In fact, it's only when names like Ambedkar and Einstein are dropped that Ayyan (Nawazuddin Siddiqui) perks up. A 'second generation' Dalit immigrant in Mumbai, the man harbours big dreams for his son, so big that he doesn't mind bending the rules a little. Adi (Aakshath Das) flummoxes his classmates and teachers with his fast-ticking brain. "Your son is a genius," everyone repeats around the boy. Little do they know that it's Ayyan passing him his lines, communicating via a blue-tooth device rigged to his ear. The con — both father and son are convinced — will pull them out of their rut.

Adapted from Manu Joseph's satirical novel, Sudhir Mishra's film seethes with underdog anger. Instead of big outbursts, screenwriter Bhavesh Mandalia underlines the small indignities men like Ayyan face. His boss at the research institute, Acharya (M Nassar), is a Brahmin scientist obsessed with collecting space microbes. He's always shutting the door on his PA, calling him 'moron', 'imbecile' and 'knobhead'. Ayyan, in turn, labels his superiors 'serious men'. When Acharya walks back on a primary school recommendation for Adi, Ayyan swears revenge. "Merit is everything," he hisses to a janitor on the way out, but his mind is made.

As Adi's popularity spreads, a community leader and his daughter come calling. The duo is pushing a lucrative redevelopment project for their chawl (the film is backdropped on the BDD settlements in Worli, Mumbai). Ayyan, reluctant at first, enrolls himself and Adi into the scheme, converting their newfound standing into signed agreements. It's the first sign that he will go to any length to get ahead. Later, he slips away to threaten a little girl who comes upon their secret, a scene made creepier by Nawazuddin's icy manner and the food packet he presses into her hand.

At other places, too, the film resists the corniness that can seep into a story like this. Ayyan having a change of heart after Adi collapses on stage is, granted, a bit mawkish. But the rest of the film is fixedly bitter: the scene where Oja, Ayyan's wife, calls him out on his selfishness, saying she was better off marrying a pimp, is rarely glimpsed in a film on children. Indira Tiwari is brilliant in the part, fencing calmly and assuredly with Nawazuddin's cocksure crook. The rest of the cast deserves praise, especially Sanjay Narvekar as the politician (It's also touching to note that Vaastav's Dedh Phutiya is now laying high-rises).

The whimsical details — Acharya's hunt for alien microbes, the fish tank Adi stares at in school — don't add up to much. There is, however, one intriguing thread. At a talent show, Ayyan is upset by the sight of young kids paraded as clowns. When Oja reminds him he's doing the same, Ayyan responds in the negative. "My son is a true genius," he insists angrily. It could well be that Ayyan, so hell bent on his scheme, has reached a point of self-delusion. In his desperate bid to fool the world, he has convinced himself of his own lie. This is also echoed in Adi, a young boy who's gotten so attached to fame and stardom that he can hardly let go.

There's a shot in Serious Men almost identical to one in Sacred Games. Ayyan, like gangster Ganesh Gaitonde, rests his head back and looks up. The light beats down as he smiles broadly at the camera, a lone teardrop escaping the corner of his eye. In both scenes, it's characters letting out a final sigh, and Nawazuddin lends them both grace and dignity. A true genius — must we say?
